Freighter Breaks Up at Harbor; Vacation Beaches Threatened

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — An oil slick four miles long and a mile wide threatened to drive thousands of vacationing sun worshipers from Puerto Rico's luxury beaches today after a Liberian tanker broke up at the mouth of San Juan harbor.

Some of the Ocean Eagle's 6 million gallons of oil washed up on the white sand in front of the Caribe Hilton Hotel Sunday night, and the slick drifted toward the other luxury hotels along the beach in the plush Condado area.

It was the second such mishap to a Liberian-flag tanker within a year. Last March 18, the

LBJ Requests
$15.6 Billion
In Health Bill

Proposal Would Include Program
On Birth Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed a $15.6 billion "Health in America" program to Congress today that would more than double federal outlays for birth control programs, boost efforts to slash infant deaths and provide new incentives for the training of more doctors.

In a special message, Johnson outlined "five major new goals" — to curb infant mortality, provide more health personnel, combat soaring medical costs, lower the accidental death rate, and seek volunteer efforts by doctors, hospitals and others to provide better health for all Americans.

The $15.6 billion price tag for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would boost the current annual outlay $8 billion.

Increase Funds

Johnson asked Congress to increase funds for birth control activities to $61 million from $25 million. He said this would make family planning information and birth control devices or drugs available to an additional 3 million women "if they so desire."

He also announced plans to create a center for population studies and human reproduction, primarily to direct family planning research, and asked for an initial appropriation of $12 million to support it.

The chief executive said infant mortality is "inexcusably high" although it has dropped from 25.2 deaths per 1,000 children under the age of one in 1963, to 22.1 last year.

Ranks 15th

Noting that the United States ranks only 15th in infant mortality, Johnson said the nation "should lead the world in saving its young."

He asked Congress to provide an additional $58 million next year for maternal and child health care programs. He said the goal should be to eliminate all problems in this area by 1973.

He also asked for another $215 million or a total of $1.4 billion, for child health services.

Proposing a new Health Manpower Act, Johnson said this measure would consolidate and continue programs now being carried out under laws that expire in June, 1969.

One major feature of the administration bill would give bigger subsidies to medical schools, increasing their enrollment, and provide federal grants to cover all costs of major changes—including the building of dormitories—needed to hike enrollments.

Drug Costs

Johnson also proposed some ideas aimed at lowering the amount that American families now spend on drugs. He asked Congress to authorize the government to establish within a relative narrow range the "reasonable cost" of drugs the government now pays for under a variety of programs.

Because of the size of federal outlays in this area, the idea is that drug costs generally would come down.

Johnson also announced establishment of the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports to be headed by Vice President, Hubert H. Humphrey. This is an attempt to upgrade the old President's Council on Physical Fitness.

5 Injured in All-Day Fire
In Neenah

NEENAH — Five persons, including three firemen, were injured early Sunday morning in a stubborn fire which destroyed Jerry's Lakeside Bar and Hotel on the north-west side of the city.

The blaze, which ran through the three-story brick structure and the adjoining two-story frame building in a matter of minutes shortly before 2 a.m., took firemen from Neenah and Menasha almost 16 hours to snuff out completely.

Four tenants, found huddled on the roof in 13 degree temperatures, were rescued by firemen. Two others were pulled through windows on the second floor.

Found on Stairway

One man, Andrew Schlenker, 60, was discovered lying semiconscious on the stairway. He is listed in satisfactory condition at Theda Clark Hospital with cuts on his head and a possible back injury.

Another tenant, Ernest Wittkopf, 42, was released after treatment for minor injuries at the hospital.

Firemen Joseph Birling, Richard Olson and Ronald Mertz also were treated at the hospital.

Olson, 29, 616 Roosevelt St., suffered lacerations about his left eye when his safety glasses broke. He also sustained burns on his neck, both ears and right wrist.

Birling, 32, 1243 Maple St., is being treated for smoke inhalation and frost-bitten ears. Mertz, 44, 806 Jean St., was released from the hospital after treatment for minor injuries.

By the time firemen arrived at the scene, smoke was billowing from the windows. After rescuing the tenants from the front windows and the roof of the bar, the firemen poured thousands of gallons on the smoldering structures.

Around 4 a.m., the roof at the rear of the bar section caved in, flames leaped 30 to 40 feet into the air. Six hours later the rear wall of the frame building collapsed.

Senate Votes to Stop Debate on Rights Bill

Passage of Measure

Apparently Assured by Two-Thirds Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate clamped a cut-off today on further debate on a compromise civil rights protection and open housing bill.

The vote was 65 to 32, a bare two-thirds majority.

The vote appeared to assure Senate passage of the administration-backed measure. It had been hovering on the brink of defeat after the failure of three earlier debate-limiting cloture moves.

From now on each senator will be limited to one hour's speaking time on the compromise bill and the scores of proposed amendments.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield indicated to newsmen before the vote that if cloture failed he felt it would be futile to continue debate on this bill.

But he said: 7th graf A101WX
Once all the amendments have been acted on, unlimited debate on passage of the bill will be possible unless cloture is voted a second time.

Backers Confident

But the bill's supporters were confident that the back of the opposition had been broken by today's vote.

Just before the vote, Mansfield told the Senate that "the nation is in the most difficult period in its history, and I include the Civil War in that statement."

He said it was not a time for apprehension but a time for understanding, reminding his colleagues that this is "a conglomerate nation" made up of many different races and peoples.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., a leader of the civil rights forces, said they had been working tirelessly to win the necessary two-thirds margin.

"This is an enormous crisis for our nation," he told the Senate.

Dirksen Appeals

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a final appeal for cloture that "all I have to say is that I've tried."

To begin with, Dirksen joined with Southern senators in fighting the bill but he later switched around and worked out the compromise measure with a bipartisan civil rights bloc.

A weekend report by the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, calling for passage of legislation banning discrimination in the sale or rental of any U.S. housing, lent added significance to the Senate action.

The Senate voted 59 to 35 Friday for cutting off the debate, leaving the bill's supporters 4 votes short of the margin necessary to force action.

A first cloture vote failed by 7 votes and a second by 6.

But it was Friday's vote that was a jolting upset. It came after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen dropped his opposition and offered the compromise

Supreme Court To Hear Famed
'Monkey Case'

Accepts Review
Of Arkansas Law Limiting Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stage was set in the Supreme Court today for a replay of Tennessee's famed "monkey trial"—without its carnival frenzy.

The Tennessee law that led to the dramatic 1925 duel between Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan was killed by the state legislature last May.

But Arkansas and Mississippi continue to make the teaching of evolution a crime and today the court agreed to decide if the Arkansas law violates the right to teach and the freedom to learn.

These rights have been asserted by Mrs. Susan Epperson, 26, who claimed she could not teach biology properly in Little Rock's Central High School without explaining the Darwinian concept of evolution, and by H. H. Blanchard, who said his school-aged children should be exposed to all scientific theory.

Upheld by Court

The Arkansas law was upheld by the state Supreme Court June 5 as a "valid exercise of the state's power to specify the curriculum in its public schools."

Arguments will be heard in the majestic setting of the highest court in the land by May. The 1925 case was argued in the small town of Dayton, Tenn., where a 10-foot banner on the courthouse read "Read Your Bible Daily."

John Thomas Scopes, then 24, was convicted of teaching evolution and fined $100. He quit school, but the following year Tennessee courts reversed the conviction on a technicality and remitted the fine.

The Arkansas law forbids the teaching in any tax-supported school in the state of "the theory or doctrine that mankind ascended or descended from a lower order of animals."

Textbooks advancing the concept of evolution are banned. Teachers or textbook commissioners who violate the law may be fined up to $500 and fired.

Johnson Studying
'Request' of Sailors

Captured Crewmen Reportedly Want President to Apologize

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is studying a letter reportedly addressed to him by members of the crew of the captured intelligence ship Pueblo.

"We were captured while committing hostile acts 7.6 miles from Yo Do in the vicinity of Wonsan in the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea on 23 January, 1968."

The State Department disclosed today that the United States had officially received the letter in a meeting of U.S. and North Korean negotiators at Panmunjom, Korea, Sunday night.

"There were signatures on it," a spokesman said in response to inquiries about whether the letter was in fact signed by some or all of the 82 members of the Pueblo crew.

'Being Studied'

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said that the letter "is being studied."

Meanwhile it was learned that the extraordinary message had in fact gone to the President for his personal consideration as well as to other high officials.

The letter was addressed to the President.

The Korean Central News Agency said the letter was signed by Capt. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the U.S. Navy intelligence-gathering ship, and the 81 surviving members of his crew.

One other crewman was reported killed when North Korean navy boats captured the Pueblo off the east coast of North Korea on Jan. 23.

The North Koreans claimed the Pueblo was in their territorial waters. The United States said the ship was in international waters.

The Communist agency said the ship's crew wrote the President "to request your assistance in our repatriation."

The letter, according to the North Koreans, said:

"We do not mean to imply that your concern for us is or has been negligent."

"On the contrary, our earnest desire is that you, our commander in chief, have the complete facts as we and the gov-

Run by American Woman

Viet Cong Seize Hospital

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong forces seized a hospital run by an American woman doctor today, blew up the operating and x-ray rooms and fired indiscriminately into some of the wards, U.S. military spokesmen reported.

U.S. officers at Kontum said the doctor, Patricia Smith, of Seattle, Wash., two American nurses, a Danish nurse and a German nurse who work at the hospital were safe in a secure area in the city.

The hospital is on the outskirts of Kontum, a central highlands city 275 miles north of Saigon.

The officers said, however, that a second German nurse, a Montagnard nurse and a Montagnard worker were abducted.

According to reports received by the American officers, mortar flashes were observed in the vicinity of the hospital about 1:15 a.m.

"The Viet Cong were using that area to fire mortars into the Kontum airstrip," one officer said. "None hit the airstrip, but they fell in the general vicinity."

"Later on, the Viet Cong entered the hospital and asked the patients where the Americans were living. The patients told them the Americans were living in the city at night."

Details were still sketchy. It was not immediately clear whether the Americans were in the city at the time or whether the Montagnard patients told them the Viet Cong that to protect the staff. It is possible that Dr. Smith and the others were hiding somewhere on the hospital grounds.

One patient was killed and four were wounded in the attack, the American officer said. He reported the wards filled with patients, two, three or more to a bed. Among them were infants just a few weeks old. Families caring for hospitalized relatives usually sleep on the floor next to the beds.

Only Sunday, U.S. military officials in Kontum and Miss Smith had told a reporter that the Viet Cong would never attack the hospital because they knew the local Montagnard tribesmen depended on it.

OGO 5 Rockets Into Sun-Studying Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A research satellite that looks like a giant praying mantis today rocketed into orbit with a record number of experiments to make the most comprehensive study yet of how the sun influences the earth.

A 12-story-tall Atlas-Agena rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 8:06 a.m. EST, to propel OGO5, the fifth Orbiting Geophysical Observatory, into space.

Eight minutes later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the metal monster, still attached to the Agena second stage, was in an initial transfer orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

After coasting on this course for nearly an hour, the Agena engines re-started to push the payload into a great elliptical orbit ranging from about 175 to 92,000 miles high. On this path it will move continually in and out of the earth's atmosphere.

The control center reported OGO 5's solar panels and other insect-like appendages deployed on schedule and that the flight was progressing very well. The more sensitive experiments, such as magnetometers, are unreel on the end of long booms to prevent interference with other sensors and from power sources in the main body of the spacecraft.

The satellite carries 25 scientific experiments, four more than on any previous U.S. satellite. They are intended to provide scientists with the best look yet at how thermonuclear flare eruptions on the sun affect our atmosphere, weather and communications.

Peace Setback Seen In Nasser Declaration

Egypt Will Rewin Land, Chief Vows

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli officials said today President Gamal Abdel Nasser's speech vowing to regain every inch of soil occupied by Israel as a result of the June war was a "serious setback to peace."

"We can only hope there is a difference between this sort of demagoguery and actual policy making in Egypt," said Foreign Ministry spokesman David Rivlin.

Nasser, a three-time loser in war with Israel, told a rally near Cairo Sunday that Israel's announcement last week that it no longer considers the west bank of the Jordan River "enemy territory" would "cost her dearly."

No Moderation

"We will be a solidly united front against our common enemy to liberate the occupied areas," Nasser said.

Rivlin commented: "When the whole world is looking to Israel and the Arabs to take the big step and talk peace, Nasser's speech was very disappointing and confusing."

Officials said there had been signs of moderation in Cairo in the last few weeks but the "war-like" speech dashed hopes that Egypt and Jordan are willing to meet Israel in direct negotiations.

However, some informed sources believed Nasser made his fiery declarations to placate critics in Egypt and bolster his prestige in the Arab world rather than to torpedo the possibility of peace talks.

Israel announced last week it was willing to meet the Arabs under U.N. auspices and hinted that contacts with Cairo and Amman indicated the Arabs would probably sit down at the conference table.

Annex Territories

The Israeli announcement concerning the west bank was taken in Arab capitals as an indication that Israel planned to annex the territories it seized from the Arabs, which also include the Sinai Desert and Gaza Strip taken from Egypt and the Golan Heights seized from Syria.

Israeli officials denied their government had any such intention but admitted today the announcement was probably badly timed, coming as it did on the heels of the Israeli overture for peace talks.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Cabinet that Secretary-General Diallo Telli of the Organization of African Unity lied when he announced that an OAU ministerial conference on Feb. 24 adopted a resolution by acclamation demanding Israel withdraw from the occupied territories.

Eban said his office had received reports from various African capitals which proved the resolution was not even on the list of motions. He said 12 African governments had issued statements "taking exception" to Telli's announcement.

"These clarifications prove once more the friendship of African states for Israel," Eban declared.

Telli's announcement had brought demands from the Israeli press that Israeli aid to African states be cut in retaliation.

'Stolen' Plane Repossessed

RENO, Nev. (AP) — What started out Sunday as the reported theft of a $200,000 Lockheed Lodestar aircraft from Reno airport ended up as a repossession, police reported.

The plane belonged to multi-millionaire Charles A. Steen, who discovered uranium in Utah in 1952. Last week, the Internal Revenue Service filed tax liens totaling $1.8 million against Steen.

On Sunday, Steen's 10-place plane took off from the airport and it was reported stolen. About four hours later, a lawyer walked into the Reno police station and said he represented a Chicago bank which was repossessing the aircraft.

Ton of Reptiles Caught In Rattlesnake Hunt

SWEETWATER, Tex. (AP) — The annual rattlesnake roundup in Sweetwater ended Sunday with the honors for the biggest snake, 64-inches, and the most caught, 300 pounds, going to Tiltbert William of Inadale, Tex., he was paid a dollar an inch for his 64-inch reptile.

About 200 hunters from nine states registered for the 10th renewal of the roundup. Roundup officials said 2,062 pounds of snakes were caught.

Shot Fired at Evers Home

Negro Mississippi House Candidate Kept Under Guard

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Police said someone in a passing car fired a shotgun blast toward the home of Negro leader Charles Evers Sunday night—and guards outside the house fired back.

The house has been under night guard by armed volunteers since Evers entered the race for a vacated congressional seat. His brother, civil rights leader Medgar Evers, was killed by a sniper in 1963.

H. B. Harrell, a police major, said a 16-year-old boy was arrested about an hour after the 11 p.m. shooting and held for questioning. A shotgun was confiscated.

A volunteer guard, Milton Cooper, 27, told police the car had circled the block several times, arousing his suspicions, and he ducked into the house to telephone for reinforcements.

4 in Car

"I was going out the front door when this car came back around the corner," said Cooper. "I heard the statement, 'shoot the nigger.' The car was on its fifth time around and there were four whites in it. I saw arms come out with the object—it fired—and I fired three times. Whatever they fired sounded like a cannon."

"Aren't but two people involved, a 16-year-old white male and the fellow (Cooper) out there in the yard," said Harrell. "The house was not hit. A five gallon bucket was hit and that's all."

Officers said there were two holes in the bucket apparently made by buckshot—large pellets used in deer hunting.

Harrell said the youth told officers a guard had threatened him with a pistol earlier when he stopped at an intersection stop sign in front of the Evers' house.

Illinois Guard Official Cites Feud in Dismissal

CHICAGO (AP) — Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane says he has been fired as commander of the Illinois National Guard because of a personal feud with a superior officer and his opposition to the demotion of two Negro officers.

Kane, 56, told a news conference Sunday he was notified formally Friday in an unsigned message from Gov. Otto Kerner that he was being replaced.

Kane

He will be succeeded by Brig. Gen. Richard T. Dunn, a Bloomington lawyer and a former assistant to Kane when Kane commanded the 33rd Division. The division was disbanded Feb. 1 in a general reorganization of the guard.

Kane said he was not surprised by the move, citing disagreements he has had with Maj. Gen. Leo Boyle, the guard's adjutant general who is second in command to Kerner.

Policy Feud

Kane said a feud with Boyle goes back two years over policies which Kane felt "were not operating to the best advantage of the guard."

"For example," he said, "in 1966, we had a tremendous number of men who had enlisted in the guard and did not have any uniforms. I told him (Boyle) that if we had to be called out, these men could not go on the street because they didn't have uniforms."

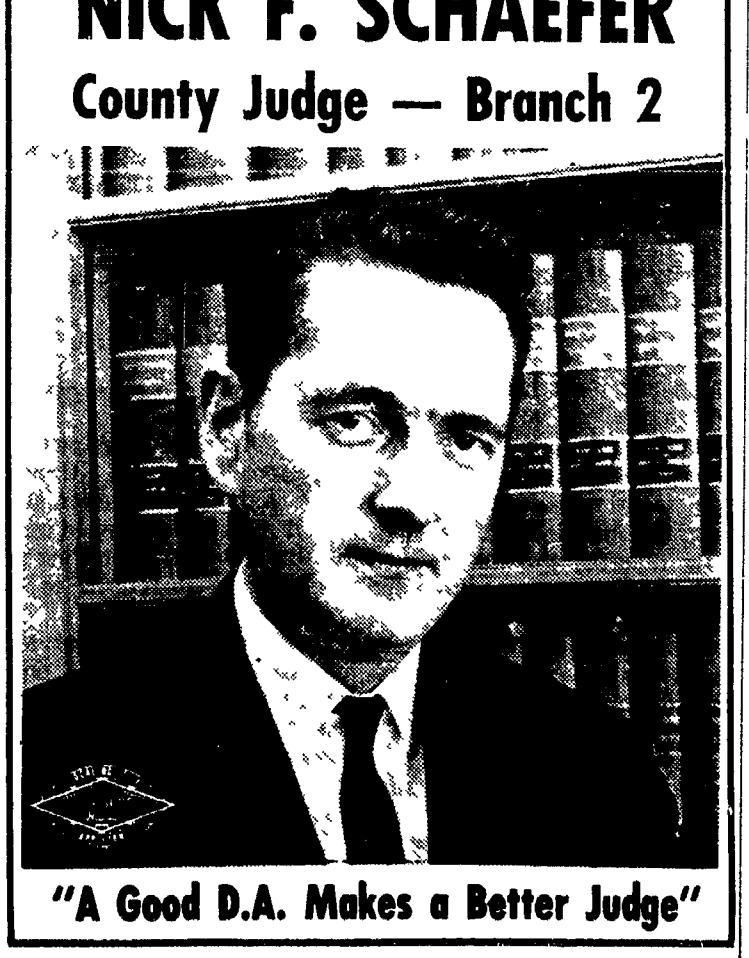

Boyle was in charge of the recent reorganization of the guard, which required that the number of guard units in the state be reduced from 108 to 77 while guard strength was maintained at 11,600.

Kane was critical of the reorganization ordered by the Department of Defense.

In Springfield, Boyle said, "If there's a personal clash, it's all on Kane's side. It's news to me."

Kane said he assumed another reason for his ouster was because of his support of Negro officers who were relieved of command posts in the reorganization.

Pound Value Falls On World's Market

LONDON (AP) — The British pound slipped to an all-time low today, then recovered slightly, while heavy demand for gold continued here.

For the first time since devaluation last Nov. 18, the pound dipped below its official parity rate of $2.40 but was back at the parity rate by midday.

Meanwhile, the rush of gold buying, one of the reasons behind the weakness of the pound, appeared to be heading into its second week. Dealers said demand for gold was heavy on the London market.

Official Rate

The pound dipped to $2.3992, down from Friday's close at $2.4006. Although the official rate is $2.40, the pound is allowed to move between $2.38 and $2.42.

Although the rate was still well above the allowed minimum, the pound was clearly taking the brunt of the current uncertainty over the gold price.

Dealers said shortly after the gold market reopened that while demand was big, it probably was not as high as it was last Friday, when some 40 tons were reported to have changed hands. A normal day's turnover in London is about 5 tons.

Rumors over the weekend that South Africa is considering switching its gold sales from London to Paris had no noticeable effect on the opening. Officials here and on the continent discounted the report.

U. S. Price

Continuation of the wave of gold buying this week had been expected for a variety of other reasons, among them uncertainty over whether the United States will be able to stick to its fixed price of $35 a fine ounce.

Speculators are gambling that the price for gold will rise and they will make a financial killing if they buy now. They are turning in paper money, such as pounds, for gold, thereby contributing to the pressure on various currencies.

So far there was no indication that the Bank of England was alarmed over the decline in the rate for the pound or planned to step in and buy to push the rate back up. Dealers said the bank appeared to be letting the pound rate drift.

The February figures on Britain's foreign exchange reserves are to be published later today, and they are expected to show an increase. Authorities apparently hope this will have a steadying effect on the pound.

Alaska Opposes Term 'Salmonella'

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska House Resources Committee has introduced a resolution asking Congress not to use the terms "salmonella" or "salmonellosis" in referring to a bacteria that causes food poisoning.

The bacteria doesn't originate in a salmon, the resolution points out. But, it says, the use of those words causes some people to think it does, and that "drastically" reduces public consumption of the fish—a major industry in Alaska.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The boycott against downtown merchants in support of the city's striking garbage collectors failed in at least one instance over the weekend.

were called in by Neenah to fight the blaze. Menasha sent 14 off-duty firefighters to the scene.

Wreckers started leveling the building Sunday afternoon and firemen stood by pouring water on the ruins.

Around 700,000 gallons of water was used by the time the blaze was finally snuffed out around 8 p.m.

The hotel portion contains 224 rooms and all were filled, although only eight persons were in the building at the time of the fire.

The two buildings are valued at about $50,000.

The two managers of the bar and hotel, Gerald Bayer and Gerald Gawlick, were not in the building at the outbreak of the fire.

Bayer had closed the bar about 1 a.m. and left for his home. Gawlick passed the building around 1:30 a.m. and didn't notice the fire.

However, in less than one-half hour, the two structures were ablaze.

the political situation threatened to bring on violence.

Under the agreement, the opposition will repeat the petition for impeachment which charged Robles with illegal political activity. In return, Robles will reorganize his Cabinet on a non-political basis, expedite changes in the electoral law and shake up the electoral tribunal.

A high opposition source said the National Union of Opposition had enough votes to carry the Robles impeachment if necessary in the 42-vote National Assembly. Had impeachment been carried through, Vice President Max Delvalle, an opposition leader, would have become chief executive.

The charges against Robles are based on his support of Samudio. The Christian Democrat Party, which has no seats in the assembly, filed a complaint that Robles violated constitutional provisions banning the president from participating in a political campaign.

It also accused him of firing government employees opposing Samudio and permitting the use of state resources for political purposes.

$277 Million Asked for Defense Efforts in War Involved Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional approval of $277 million aid for six countries on the rim of the Vietnam war was asked today by the Agency for International Development.

John C. Bullitt, assistant AID administrator for East Asia, said $114 million would go to Thailand, Laos and Korea to help their defense efforts.

He said $70.9 million would help strengthen the South Korean national police in the face of increasing North Korean terrorism sorties. South Korean police would get technical advice, training and equipment.

Bullitt said the authorization also would permit increased aid to Indonesia which he called "the most important developing country in Southeast Asia in size, resources and strategic location."

Bullitt spoke in testimony prepared for the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Regional Developments

He said the boost of $56 million over current AID allocations would assist counter-insurgency in Thailand and set aside $18.3 million for regional economic development projects in Southeast Asia.

Departing from previous AID policy, Bullitt asked specific amounts for each nation - Burma, $200,000; Indonesia, $61 million; Korea, $70.9 million; Laos, $51.8 million; Philippines, $12 million; Thailand, $62.8 million and regional development $18.3 million.

Bullitt indicated emphasis would be on increasing agricultural output and, where requested, assisting in population control and family planning.

Action must be taken now if widespread hunger is to be avoided, he said.

Family Planning

National family planning programs are under way in Korea, Thailand and Indonesia, he said. And in the Philippines, a Catholic nation, there is increasing private action.

Bullitt said a shift to the Defense Department in the financing of increasing food requirements for the Laotian armed forces and for refugees in isolated areas of that Communist-threatened country will reduce and wounded another 28, most of them in the first eight minutes of a machine-gun attack Saturday.

U.S. pilots flew 68 missions against North Vietnam Sunday, many of them radar guided because of the overcasts of the continuing northeast monsoons. The major strike was an attack by Navy A6 Intruders, from the carrier Enterprise on an 1-acre cargo transfer and storage complex on the Red River 1.8 miles southeast of the center of Hanoi. It was the second attack on that target in three days.

The major targets of the Communist shellings included six allied air bases, a U.S. Navy base, the base camps of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the 45th Infantry Division, the country's biggest oil tank farm just outside Saigon, a big Marine supply base and two Green Beret Special Forces camps.

The attacks were the heaviest series of coordinated shellings since Feb. 19 when Communist forces hit with rockets and mortar shells in Saigon and 46 other cities and allied installations in their second wave attacks.

Car Accidents Fatal to Eight On Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eight persons died in weekend highway accidents in Wisconsin, pushing the rapidly climbing toll for the year to 152.

The toll on this date in 1967, the state's record year for traffic deaths, was 116.

James Russell, 17, Shullsburg, was killed about 11:30 p.m. Sunday when the car in which he was riding left a township road 11 miles south of Platteville. Russell was thrown out of the car and crushed when the auto tipped over on him on an embankment.

A Dodge County man, William Panshyn, 21, of rural Neosho, died Sunday after his car struck a tree beside a road north of Ashippun.

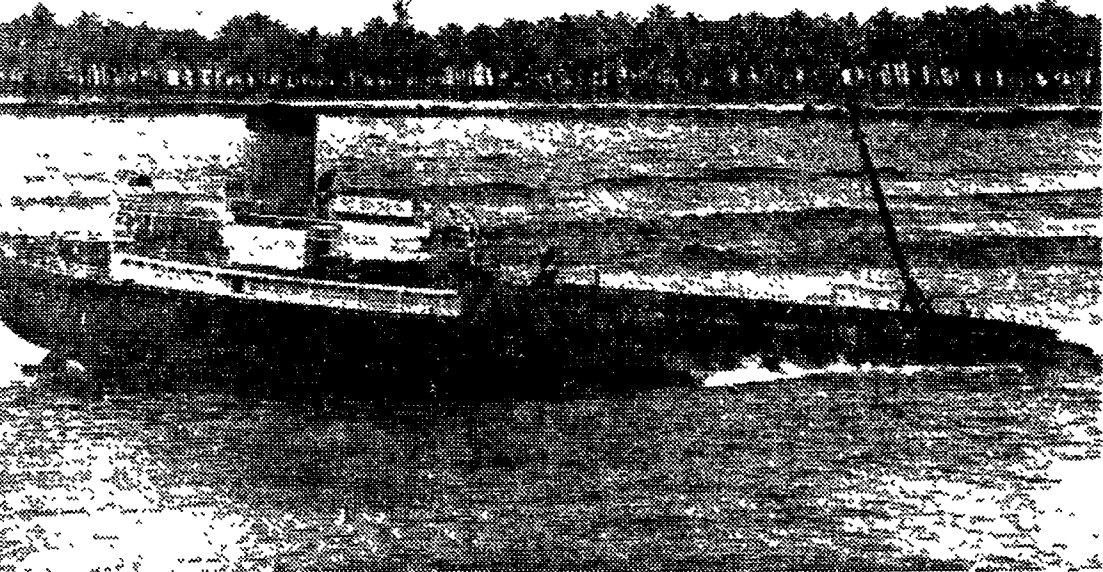

James M. Paulson, 31, of Menomonee Falls died Sunday when his car struck a tree stump beside a street in that community.

A Milwaukee man, Michael Seifert, 20, died Saturday night in a hospital after being found unconscious beside his wrecked motorcycle in West Allis.

Elwood K. Martin, 19, of Hayward was killed Saturday when the car in which he was riding overturned on Highway 63 north of Drummond, Bayfield County.

Two Societies—One Black, One White

The massive report by the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reaffirms the pessimism of many Americans, including President Johnson, toward any sort of urban peace next summer. For there is no question in the report but that extremely serious conditions continue to exist in the urban ghettos and only a tremendous efficiently coordinated — and expensive — program can hope to eradicate the evils and promote harmony between the blacks and whites in our cities.

The report makes it clear that the white community has been primarily to blame for the conditions that exist. "Segregation and poverty have created in the racial ghetto a destructive environment totally unknown to most white Americans. What white Americans have never fully understood — but what the Negro can never forget — is that white society is deeply implicated in the ghetto. White institutions created it, white institutions maintain it, and white society condones it."

The report also adequately explains why the Negro cannot usually break away from this deprived environment as did poor, white immigrants to the United States in the 19th and early 20th centuries. "European immigrants suffered from discrimination but never so pervasively. . . By the time the Negroes came to the cities, political machines were no longer so powerful. . . and were unwilling to share their remaining influence with the Negro. . . The immigrants sensed little deprivation in being forced to take less desirable and poorly paid jobs. . . They gained an economic foothold by providing the unskilled labor needed by industry. Unlike the immigrant, the Negro migrant found little opportunity in the city. The economy, by then matured, had little use for the unskilled labor he had to offer."

The immigrant, too, was sustained by his cohesive family. But the Negro, with a history of slavery and long periods of unemployment, drifted into a matriarchal family structure. "Above all, segregation denied Negroes access to good jobs and the opportunity to leave the ghetto."

The statistics presented by the commission show how desperate is that ghetto existence. Infant mortality in the first month is 58 per cent higher than in middle class white communities, three times as high between the ages of 1 and 12 months. "The level of sanitation . . . is far below that in high income areas" and rat bites are only one indication. There is some evidence that "distinctly higher prices were charged for goods sold in ghetto stores than in other areas."

And perhaps, most serious of all, police protection is far inferior in the urban ghettos. While whites, sometimes paranoically fear attack by Negroes, it is the Negro himself who suffers the most from crime. In one city, the rate was 35 times as high for serious crimes against black persons than in white areas. The dual standard of police protection, so prevalent in the rural south, has become commonplace in the urban ghettos.

Contrary to a lot of white suspicions, the commission found no evidence "that all or any of the disorders or the incidents that led to them were planned or directed by any organization or group, international, national or local," although militant organizations and individual agitators "Helped to create an atmosphere that contributed to the outbreak of disorder."

But the list of grievances, which meant eruption into violence in the ghetto atmosphere, were primarily police practices, unemployment and inadequate housing. In lesser degrees were the other discriminatory characteristics of ghetto existence — inadequate education and recreational facilities, no political grievance mechanism, discriminatory justice, consumer and credit practices and inadequate services and welfare programs.

The recommendations of the commission are too extensive to list. But primarily they concern joint community-government efforts with expanded opportunities for ghetto residents to participate to develop communication, grievance response and the review of police operations. It condemns the moves "to equip police departments with mass destruction weapons which . . . have no place in densely populated urban communities."

It recommends extensive cooperation among local, state and federal officials and funds.

And it states that "our nation is moving toward two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal." The alternative "will require a commitment to national action — compassionate, massive and sustained. . . from every American. It will require new attitudes, new understanding and above all, new will."

At this confusing time in our history, it seems unlikely that the United States will be able to meet this challenge. Congress — and the President — have emphasized instead the necessity for order in the streets without much attention to the reasons for the disorder. The money is tied up in trying to win a war. Too many white Americans continue to see the problem only as containing or preventing violence at whatever cost to the black community.

If the nation is to "mount programs on a scale equal to the dimension of the problems, a lot of Americans, especially political leaders, must recognize that the ghettos were primarily erected by the white community which must now bear the primary responsibility for tearing them down. It isn't going to be a simple matter when retaining old prejudices is so much easier. We must devoutly hope that it will not take another and more violent summer to change more minds.

Dismissal of Case Puzzling

We are somewhat puzzled over Outagamie County Judge Urban P. Van Susteren's dismissal of a case against a young Appleton man accused of possessing an obscene book. The one big question left totally unanswered is the one which the district attorney's office sought to have answered when it brought the charge. The question: Is volume one of My Secret Life obscene?

After a cursory reading of the paperback edition, we can't dispute the judge's assessment. In open court, he termed the book "vulgar, hideous, and pornographic beyond description." That it is. Nearly every one of the 307 pages is a testimonial to all that is ugly. The book makes a mockery of sex by relegating it to the gutter. Says Time Magazine of the book, ". . . My Secret Life makes 'Fanny Hill' look like Mary Poppins."

We cannot fully agree with Judge Van Susteren in his insistence that action must be taken against the "sources" of the repulsive book before any consideration could be given to continuing prosecution against the man who possessed it. When the district attorney's office brought the charge last September, it was in an attempt to seek a legal answer as to whether the book was obscene. It was the first obscenity charge brought in several years in Outagamie County.

Once it could be determined if the book was obscene, then it would seem action could properly be taken against the sellers and perhaps the publisher and the author. But, it would seem first things should have come first.

We further question Judge Van Susteren's "ultimatum" to the district attorney's office to either issue warrants against sources of the book within a week or the possession charge would be dismissed. Should the warrants have been issued against all outlets in Outagamie County where the book was available? Or only against the four Appleton stores cited by the defense attorney as being sellers of the book? Regardless, it hardly seems proper that the district attorney's office should have been "backed to the wall" as was the situation here.

Finally, we question the judge's seemingly selfish refusal to allow the district attorney's office to appeal his dismissal action. This blocked any further attempt. At least in this instance, to determine whether volume number one of My Secret Life is obscene or shall remain on local bookshelves, available to anyone with $2.95. An appeal was the only remaining remedy.

This, we feel, should have been decided by a jury, or at least a judge who was willing to hear the case through. The serious and far-reaching charge was, we feel, dismissed with too much haste and too little regard for its implication on the community.

Grant Writes Letter to President

Quoted from the Appleton Post for March 3, 1868.

The very interesting correspondence between Gen. Grant and President Johnson has just been published.

Gen. Grant evidently was indignant at the falsehoods and double-dealing, to injure the General's reputation with the people — who, if he lives, will make him their next President. He says:

"And now, Mr. President, when my honor as a soldier and integrity as a man has been so violently assailed, pardon me for saying, that I can but regard the whole matter from beginning to end as an attempt to involve me in the resistance of law for which you hesitated to assume the responsibility, in order thus to destroy my character before the country.

"I am, in a measure, confirmed in this conclusion by your recent orders directing me to disobey orders from the Secretary of War (Edwin M. Stanton), my superior and your subordinate, without having countermanded his authority. I am to disobey him.

"With the assurance, Mr. President, that nothing less than a vindication of my personal honor and character could have induced this correspondence on my part, obediently,

Current Issue in Vietnam Isn't More Troops, It's Our Strategy

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

WASHINGTON — With their characteristic flair for panicky over-simplification, the drum-beaters for the Vietnam war have been trying to make it seem that the central issue in the current Washington discussions of the war is whether this country sends more troops. But the central issue is far wider than that narrow point.

Kraft

The central issue is whether American troops can be used in a way consonant with this country's political objectives. And to achieve that goal, there is required a sweeping reappraisal of the whole Vietnam picture, including basic American strategy and the deployment of forces.

The strategy so far followed by General Westmoreland is the strategy of a war of attrition. The idea has been to kill enemy soldiers in such numbers that the other side would first lose control over the countryside and then either fade away or else agree to make peace terms.

SWEEP OPERATIONS

In pursuit of that strategy, American units, throughout 1966 and most of 1967, put heavy pressure on enemy forces through massive sweep operations in the central parts of South Vietnam. As enemy forces tended to seek sanctuary in border areas, American forces were concentrated opposite them along the demilitarized zone with North Vietnam and the frontier with Laos and Cambodia. In some cases concentrations of American troops were deliberately set out as lures to tempt the other side to attack and expose themselves to massive counterattack.

The strategy of attrition has long been criticized by some American and foreign military men. And the Tet offensive by the other side has now exposed the weaknesses of that strategy in a dramatic way.

For one thing, American forces were tied up in fixed positions at the extremities of the country. Large and highly populated areas elsewhere in the country had to be left to the protection of the South Vietnamese forces.

These places, and the delicate apparatus of local government and pacification working in them, were thus vulnerable to surprise attack by the other side. And in the Tet offensive, the other side did catch friendly forces off guard, and did disrupt the pacification campaign and the local political structure.

Secondly, fighting along the borders gave the other side the advantage of sanctuaries and short supply lines. In these conditions, the enemy was in a position to take a heavy toll of American forces. And that too has happened in the Tet offensive — at Khe Sanh and elsewhere.

RESTRICTED BOMBING

Thirdly, the heavy American casualties were not only bad in themselves but hampered this country's ability to use the bombing of North Vietnam in an advantageous way. To be sure, the bombing did not significantly restrict the flow of materials from North to South Vietnam — witness the many new weapons including tanks and rocket-throwers which have recently been showing up.

But with casualties mounting, it was impossible because of domestic political considerations for this country to cut off the bombing, or even restrain its pattern very long. Thus the President was not able to use the bombing for its true purpose — as a diplomatic counter to get negotiations going.

In the face of appeals from all over the world, he has felt obliged to intensify the bombing. And thus the United States has suffered a setback in both the real war and the propaganda war.

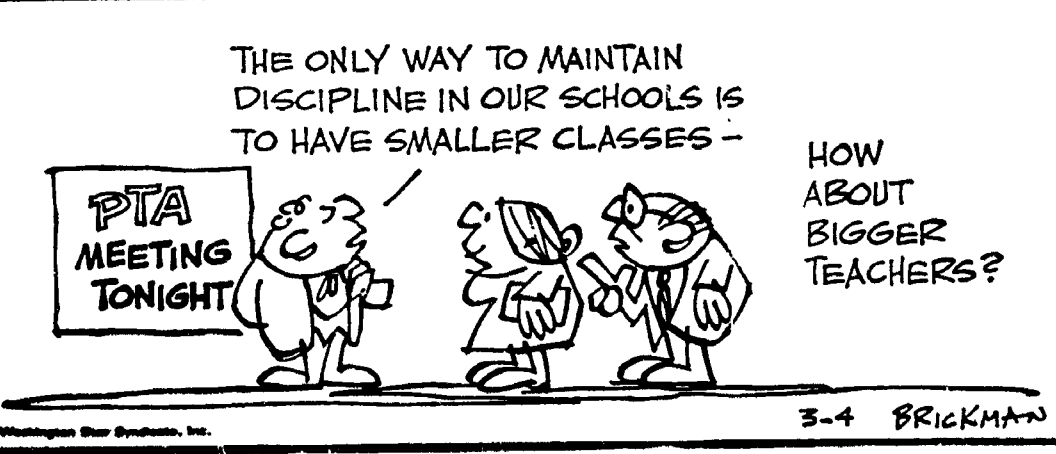

What all this means is that the American position cannot be redeemed simply by putting in more troops. The more so as the other side, as it has repeatedly in the past, could react by putting in more of its men and resources.

What is required is a new strategy and a redeployment of American forces in a way that cuts down casualties. Then, if the other side wanted to keep fighting, this country would be in good position to stay the course. And if it happened, as it may, that the other side wanted to go for talks, the United States could take, as it now cannot, the minimum step required — the cessation of the bombing.

Wisconsin Report

Poll on Legislative Salaries Premature At This Early Date

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A legislative interim committee upon the instructions of the Legislature as a whole is polling persons supposedly informed on the legislative process, including lobbyists, on the question of proper compensation for senators and assemblymen.

Wyngaard

The poll comes only a year after the legislature happily adopted the report of the first Kellett commission on efficiency in state government, which provided for a generous increase in compensation which became effective a year ago with the exception of one-half of the members of the Senate who are constitutionally barred from receiving an increase in their emoluments until they are elected again.

Implying as it does that the lawmakers are considering another round of increases, the poll is premature and quite aside from the merits, there may be some doubts about the techniques.

Is it quite credible that a professional lobbyist will willingly express himself in the negative when such a question is put to him? The Kellett commission also consulted with the lobbyists as technicians of experience and men whose observations might be useful. But that was an academic exercise. The results were held confidential. How can the present lobbyist replying to such a poll be sure that he won't antagonize somebody, to the damage of his client, if he should file a doubtful or negative report?

A PREMATURE POLL

But more relevantly, the poll now is premature, because the replies of the realistic and honest respondent must depend on factors that cannot now be known.

This reporter avoided criticism of the last round of legislative pay increases. Chances are that these dispatches will be sympathetic to additional compensation adjustments, according to conditions as they evolve.

Even today, although Wisconsin legislative pay ranks fairly high in the country, it does not compare well with other public service pay scales in this state, including those in the civil service. It remains below the pay provided for the aldermen and supervisors of Milwaukee, who probably spend less time and effort on their duties, can perform them at home without as much interference with their private affairs, and who are also talking gingerly about raising their pay.

But the issue in legislative compensation remains premature. It is based on the assumption that the legislature is headed for full-time service, which cannot yet be forecast with certainty.

On the April constitutional referendum ballot will be the question of repealing the requirement for biennial and making possible an annual session such as is employed in about half of the states of the country. But even the adoption of that amendment is doubtful.

If it is adopted, there is not certainty that the annual session will in fact be established. It will be up to the judgment of a future Legislature, which may or may not want to wish to do so according to the prevailing winds of public opinion at the time. And if it does, it does not seem likely that the annual sessions will be full-time sessions.

LONGER EACH TIME

It must be conceded that legislative deliberations are more drawn out today than ever before. A part of the reason is the growth of the state, the increase in the number and complexity of its problems, and the correspondingly greater load of work put on the men who are responsible for the conduct of the lawmaking branch. But a part of the cause also is the more leisurely attitude of the typical lawmaker toward his job today.

Once the Legislature found weekly party caucuses sufficient for the formulation of major policy lines. Today, there are daily caucuses, and sometimes two or three times daily. Readers may detect here a favorite peeve, but it is one based on fact and practice, nevertheless. Lawmakers do less homework today than did their forefathers.

The chances are fair to good that the Wisconsin Legislature will become a full-time functioning body within a decade. But there is no certainty about such a decision now.

The most prudent and graceful posture the legislative leadership could take today on the matter of pay as it relates to annual legislative sessions is to await the view of the electorate on the constitutional change in April.

String Quartet Must Buy 8 Plane Tickets

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Here's a riddle for you: How many airplane tickets must a string quartet buy in order to fly to a concert? The answer is "eight" — four for the members of the quartet, and four for the instruments.

This absurd state of affairs, which may put some of the finest chamber music groups in the country out of business, arises from a new Federal Aviation Administration ruling that no passenger shall carry with him onto a commercial airliner any package that can't be placed completely under his seat.

Harris

Violins and violas, of course, much less cellos, cannot be put under plane seats in their commodious carrying-cases. The only alternative is to send them through as baggage — and anybody who would trust a $20,000 Stradivarius to an airplane baggage-handler would send his feeble grand-mother into a cage of hungry lions.

Hardly anything in the world is more delicate than a string instrument, which can crack not only through jarring, but through freezing or overheating, as well. Most musicians take far better care of their instruments than they do of themselves, and with good reason. Amati just isn't making violins any more.

This is a classic example of the bureaucratic mind at work, if it can be called work. "Packages" are "packages," no matter if they contained Uncle Bill's soiled laundry or Menuhin's unique violin — and they receive the same impartially malevolent treatment from the baggage hook. "Rules are rules" and "I only work here" constitute the whole operating philosophy of bureaucratic mentality.

Obviously, some provision has to be made by the FAA to distinguish between cabbages and strings; special provision could be made in some compartment of the plane to hold precious objects of irreplaceable value, even at some slight extra cost to the passenger, without forcing him to buy an extra ticket for another seat.

Actually, the market for string quartets is so limited, and the groups operate on such a narrow margin of profit, that one of the finest in the country, the Juilliard, is seriously talking about disbanding if the plane regulation is not rescinded or modified. Even business executives could scarcely afford to travel extensively if their airplane fares were doubled.

No doubt the FAA had safety and convenience in mind when it promulgated the new regulation; but "packages" are as different as passengers, and a rare old violin ought to be accorded the same special treatment as an infirm old lady in a wheelchair.

Republicans See Bright Future For Party in Milwaukee County

Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON — A major reason for the comparative prosperity of the Wisconsin Republican party state tickets in recent times is that they have been able to penetrate pro-Democratic Milwaukee county more effectively than their immediate predecessor tickets.

Republican planners are now celebrating quietly the probability that they will maintain those Milwaukee gains, and perhaps extend them, through the circumstance that the state administration may be able to appoint a Republican district attorney there soon.

District Attorney Hugh O'Connell is running for a newly created judgeship in Milwaukee. His only opponent is Dominic Frinzi, the Democrat who is a perennially unsuccessful candidate for high offices. If O'Connell wins, as generally expected, the governor will have the chance to appoint a successor to the important prosecutor's job, which in turn will make the recruitment of a county officer candidate list for the GOP easier as the incumbent district attorney runs for reelection in the fall.

The fact of a campaigning county ticket is a realistic one in the success of candidates for higher offices, including governor, congressman and the rest. Lately the Democratic county slates in Milwaukee have been winning largely by default.

The late Mrs. Dena Smith, as deputy state treasurer and later as state treasurer, enlivened many a meeting on the Republican campaign trail with her skills on the piano.

Party men are now commenting on the coincidence that her newly appointed successor, Harold Clemens, also possesses some musical talents. He sings in a tenor voice that many of his associates have found pleasing during their convivial moments in the legislature.

Miss Catherine Cleary of Milwaukee, ranking officer of one of the big banks there and an official of the Eisenhower administration in Washington in the 1950's, is being boomed in some circles for appointment by Gov. Knowles to the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin in May. The nine year term of Arthur DeBardeleben of Park Falls will expire then, and Knowles has had some suggestions that the board should have at least one woman member.

Gov. Knowles is experimenting seriously with the "cabinet" idea in state administration. Not only does he hold regular and formal sessions with principal operating department heads, open to the press, in his statehouse office, but he has also had occasional dinner parties at his home to which he invites some of his chief subordinate administrators for discussions of problems and plans in a more informal and relaxed environment. Most of the department chiefs appear to enjoy the closer relationship to the elect executive than they knew in other regimes.

Their administrators may not yet be aware of it, but the legislature's interim watchdog committee on state institutions, which heretofore has confined its inspections and studies largely to welfare department facilities such as prisons and mental hospitals, is in the process of broadening its work schedule.

It will also visit and inspect higher education institutions during the period intervening before the next legislature meets, on the motion of Sen. Walter Terry of Baraboo.

Mental patients are being discharged from institutional care today more rapidly than ever before, and more rapidly in this state than in the country as a whole, as a result of new therapeutic methods and materials such as new drugs.

A recent report of the state department of health and social services disclosed that the national average for reduction of patients in mental hospitals for the period 1960-65 was about nine per cent. For Wisconsin the reduction was about eleven per cent. The Wisconsin state hospitals had a reduction of about 30 per cent, but it was off-set by a modest reduction of three per cent in the county mental institutions where patients tend to stay longer because many of them are chronically ill and transferred from the state treatment centers.

Advocated of Sunday store closing laws in Wisconsin, defeated repeatedly in the Wisconsin legislature, may draw some consolation from the fact that the Pennsylvania supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of such a law recently enacted in that state.

The careful, laborious, even ponderous pace of the legislature's machinery where clerical, proof-reading and printing services are concerned, is illustrated in the lapse of time between the end of the last legislative session and the publication of its last act.

The legislature left for home on December 17. The last of its acts was published on February 17.

Perhaps the law making branch, like others, illustrates the famous if facetious Parkinson's Law — that work tends to expand to occupy the force available. For most of its history the legislature convened in January and left its chambers in early summer. But those practices apparently have been abandoned, forever.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, the GOP house leader in Washington, like other political professionals has a stock of audience warmer-uppers in the form of anecdotes. He is currently telling, as he introduces his speeches on the turbulent condition of the world, of the airline passengers who were on a transcontinental flight. The fog was so dense that they couldn't see the wing tips of their plane.

Intervention Allowed In Milk Act Challenge

HONOLULU (AP) — Permission has been granted to Minnesota and Wisconsin to intervene in a court suit challenging the milk control act.

The two states argue the milk law, were it enforced, would prohibit the sale in Hawaii of dairy products from Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Judge Tom Ogata of Circuit Court granted motions Friday for the states to step into the case after hearing objections from a Hawaii dairy cooperative.

Some of them were visibly concerned.

Finally the pilot's voice came over the speaker system, with the announcement that he had one piece of good news, and one bad.

The bad news came first. They were lost.

"But the good news is that we are making record time," he added.

Book Circulation Reaches All-Time High at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Circulation at the public library during 1967 increased 4 per cent to a record 133,017, according to the annual report released this week by Mrs. Richard Clapp, librarian.

The number of borrowers also increased from 6,306 in 1966 to 6,509 in 1967. During the year 2,709 books added to the library bring total volumes available to 32,071. Of this total, 1,647 books were added for adults and 1,062 for children.

The record collection was increased to 187 with the addition of 64 recordings. Some of the purchases were made with a $500 grant from the federal government. During the year the library borrowed 314 volumes through the state inter-library loan program.

The winter reading program attracted 88 pre-schoolers while the summer reading program had 687 children registered. During the year, 52 school classes visited the library during National Book Week.

The library continues to subscribe to 139 periodicals and 12 newspapers. Total operating budget for the year was $51,235 of which $48,892 was expended, giving the library a balance of $2,342 at the start of this year.

During the year, a Friends of the Library organization was formed and the group is actively supporting the library and promoting interest in better library facilities. The librarian reported that overcrowding will force the staff to "weed out" many books to make room for new volumes.

Average Family in Valley Takes $1,998 In Tax Deductions

Figure Represents 19.4 Per Cent Of Mean Gross Income in Area

Special to the Post-Crescent
Taxpayers in the four-county Fox Valley area, who are in the process of preparing federal income tax returns, now can determine how closely their personal deductions compare with the averages.

Are their gifts to charity greater or smaller than those made by most people in their income bracket? How do deductions for medical expenses and local taxes compare?

Information along these lines comes from the Commerce Clearing House, national authority on taxes and business law, using data compiled by the Internal Revenue Service.

It has released a breakdown, based on tax reports of previous years, showing just how much the average taxpayer in each income class deducts for contributions, interest costs, taxes and medical expenses.

Total Deductions

Figures show that among families who have earnings equal to the average prevailing in Outagamie, Winnebago, Waupaca and Calumet counties, a total of $1,998, amounting to 19.4 per cent of gross income, is generally deducted.

Breakdown by counties shows Outagamie, $2,100, 18.5 per cent; Winnebago, $2,120, 18.1 per cent; Calumet, $1,980, 19.7 per cent, and Waupaca, $1,790, 20.8 per cent.

For families with lower earnings the amounts deducted represent a larger proportion of income. For those in the higher brackets, the reverse is true.

Area residents in the $7,500 income category will be deducting about $1,590 this year, if they conform to the average for that income. Those in the $10,000 class will have deductions totaling $1,980.

Lower Income

Studies indicate the largest deductions among people in the lower income groups are for local taxes and interest paid. These items appear in most other returns, as well.

However, deductions for contributions and medical expenses rise rapidly as income goes up.

A breakdown of the $1,998 of deductions listed by taxpayers with incomes equal to the four-county average shows that $313 of it is for contributions, $645 is for payment of interest on loans and on installment debt, $575 is for local taxes and $465 for medical costs.

Breakdown by counties shows Outagamie, $330, contributions; $680, interest; $600, taxes, and $465, medical; Winnebago, $330, $680, $610 and $500; Calumet $310, $640, $570, and $460; and Waupaca, $280, $580, $520, and $410.

These are purely guideline figures. The Internal Revenue Service will not automatically approve deductions because they are average. There must be proper records to support them.

Peace Literature Unwanted at Post

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Six persons were ejected from this Army installation Sunday for passing out antiwar literature at two chapels and a service club.

Ft. Hood officials said the pamphlets advertised a "pray-in for peace." Military sources said they were read a letter which officially barred them from returning to the post in accordance with Army regulations and then were escorted to the main gate. The Army did not know who the persons were, where they were from or where the "pray-in" was to be held, a Ft. Hood official said.

Forty-three county party groups have thus far joined in the "MORE" campaign of Mrs. Peckham, designed to recruit fall election campaign workers. Traveling trophies again will be awarded to the chairman of the county which scores the larger Republican vote gain, and to the precinct committeeman whose precinct shows the largest rise in votes recorded for the party.

Colds Might Impair Vibration of Ear Drum

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes people to lose their hearing when they get a cold? Our grandchild had his tonsils and adenoids removed, thinking that was the reason for his trouble, but he still gets an ear ache and sore throat and can't hear. — Mrs. E.G.

Removal of adenoids and tonsils in such a case usually is helpful but — as you now know — there can be other considerations.

The interference with hearing can be caused by inflammation and congestion of the opening of the eustachian tube. This is a very small tube which extends from the inner ear to the throat.

Its purpose is to equalize the pressure inside and outside the ear drum. The tube is so small that pressure does not adjust instantly — descending rapidly in an elevator, or in an airplane which is not pressurized can build up pressure outside the ear drum faster than the flow of air through the eustachian tube can compensate. Hence you cannot hear well temporarily. The reason you cannot hear well is that the ear drum, with too much pressure on it, cannot vibrate easily, and it is the vibration of the ear drum which transmits sound.

In your grandson's case, it is quite possible that a cold or other infection causes enough congestion to prevent air from passing through the eustachian tube. Instead of being able to clear it by swallowing a couple of times, as you might do after a long descent in an elevator, he still finds the tube blocked by the infection and swelling. One would guess that perhaps he is more than usually vulnerable to this type of trouble.

Another possibility is that the cold virus may attack the inner ear proper, a condition known as "serous otitis." In this there is accumulation of fluid, and pain and bulging of the ear drum. And again, since the ear drum cannot move or vibrate freely, hearing is impaired.

When this condition occurs it is possible to lance a tiny hole in the ear drum to let the fluid escape, relieve the pain, and take the pressure off the ear drum. The tiny cut in the ear drum heals readily.

If the youngster in this case has the trouble frequently, I would make sure that he has regular medical attention, preferably by an ear specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it possible to become pregnant while I am still nursing my child? — Mrs. J.F.

Contrary to popular superstition, it is possible to become pregnant while nursing.

Dear Dr. Molner: We need help desperately. With six children, I am afraid that another would mean a ruined marriage. For good reasons the pill and other contraceptives are not for me, but these weeks of abstinence are causing great pressure.

I read a magazine article about a plastic spiral that could be inserted to prevent pregnancy but could be removed when pregnancy was desired. I understand it is in use in India and is called a loop. Is it available here? — Mrs. F.R.

Yes, it is in use in this country, and also called an I.U.D., or "intra-uterine device." It may cause irritation in some women; also it must be checked periodically to make sure it has not slipped out of place. Hence it is not considered as reliable as some other methods.

If you could use this device, I don't quite understand why you couldn't use some other one, a diaphragm, for example. You'd best discuss the whole matter with a gynecologist to select the method that best suits you and your situation.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of the booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses their questions in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

Mary Quant Pulls Switch for Summer

By NADEANE WALKER LONDON (AP) — A new Mary Quant style, all frills and softly feminine, made a surprise appearance in her high summer collection shown to international buyers.

The best-known British designer hasn't necessarily deserted the shock styles that made her famous, according to her husband and official spokesman, Alexander Plunkett-Green.

"Mary just thinks that fashion doesn't arrive out of the blue any more," he explained. "The feeling at the moment is for sweet femininity so that's what she's giving them."

High Hems Miss Quant still keeps most hemlines extremely mini—more than a foot above the knee—but she off-handedly threw in a couple of maxis and one maxi bloomer dress. Names like "Harlow", "Garbo" and "Lamar" adorned models with a strong thirties influence.

For the most part her summer creations, all tricked out with broderie anglaise, tucks, ruffles, lace and shirring, looked like nursery school gear for a birthday party.

A whole group was in pure white cotton voile and dotted Swiss. And when Miss Quant got away from her favorite white it was pastels that took her fancy. One new color, called silver gray, was particularly attractive in her French muslin dresses.

Ribbon Streamers Some numbers even had their broderie anglaise ruffle trimming threaded with satin ribbon, bow-tied and hanging in streamers.

At the other end of the scale was one real granny dress, called "Claudine" and made in white moire taffeta, with hemline to the floor and a big ruffled collar above a wasp waist.

Little pearl buttons ran between rows of lace down the front of a white maxi. There was one hat—a ruffled Victorian sunbonnet. "Garbo," the most sophisticated number in the show, was a tightly fitted, high-waisted trouser suit in almond pink moire.

All the clothes are in the ginger group, Miss Quant's mass production line, and prices range from $12 to $43.

'Down One' Usually Is Undramatic

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Nobody rings the bells of city hall when you go down only one instead of two at an unmakeable contract, but such feats are the soul of good bridge. That's why I made a note of the hand when my friend, Paul Miller, Los Angeles utilities executive, came through with an unusual play to save a trick in a recent rubber bridge game.

Miller won the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and returned the king of diamonds. East thought for a moment and then took the ace, obviously worried that a holdup play would cost him his diamond trick.

East continued spades (he should have switched to a club), and Miller ruffed the third round. Now he led a trump to the ace and returned the queen of hearts from dummy. East discarded a diamond, and Miller gave the hand deep thought.

If he played low from his hand, he would then have to lead diamonds from the dummy. West would ruff as quickly as possible and get out with his last trump, forcing declarer to lead clubs from his own hand. In the actual hand South would lose a trump trick and two clubs at the end, for a penalty of 300 points.

Gives Up Miller had to give up the hope of making the hand, which was possible if East had started with only two diamonds. With this distribution East would have refused the first diamond trick.

Miller played for the best result by overtaking the queen of hearts with the king, cashing the jack of hearts and then giving up a heart to the ten. West had to cash the ace of clubs in a hurry to avoid losing it, and South was down only one.

It's not the sort of triumph that people write poems about, but it pays to hold the opponents to 100 points above the line when they were about to score 90 points below the line.

FACSIMILE BALLOT NOTICE OF JUDICIAL AND COUNTY SUPERVISOR PRIMARY ELECTION

OFFICE OF MOLLIE E. PFEFFER, COUNTY CLERK

To the Electors of Outagamie County:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN of an election to be held in the several precincts in Outagamie County on the 5th day of March, 1968, at which the officers named below shall be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column, in the sample ballot below.

Information to Electors

Upon entering the polling place, an elector shall give his name and address before receiving the ballot from the ballot clerk. The initials of 2 ballot clerks must appear on the ballot. Upon receiving the ballot, the elector shall retire alone to a voting booth and mark his ballot. A ballot clerk may inform the elector of the proper manner for marking a ballot, but he shall not in any manner advise or indicate for whom to vote.

At a nonpartisan primary, the elector shall place a cross or other mark in the square at the right of the candidate's name for each office for whom he intends to vote, or insert or write in the name of his choice for a candidate.

The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the elector spoils a ballot, he shall return it to an election official who shall issue another in its place, but not more than 3 ballots shall be issued to any one elector. Not more than 5 minutes' time shall be allowed to mark the ballot. Unofficial ballots or a memorandum to assist the elector in marking his ballot may be taken into the booth and copied. The sample ballot shall not be shown to anyone so as to reveal how the ballot is marked.

After the official ballot is marked, it shall be folded so the inside marks do not show but so the printed indorsements and ballot clerks' initials on the outside do show. After folding the ballot, the elector shall leave the booth, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him the ballot to be placed in the ballot box, and leave the polling place promptly.

An elector may be assisted by 2 election officials of different political parties in marking the ballot if he declares to the presiding official that he is unable to read or that due to physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot. If an elector declares that he is visually handicapped, he may have anyone assist him in marking his ballot or operating a voting machine. The presiding official may administer an oath as to a person's disability.

FTC Rules Furniture Terms Used Improperly

Through the ages we have come to rely on geographical terms for description. In foods, how else would we explain Italian spaghetti, Danish pastry, French bread, to name just a few?

Yet, the Federal Trade Commission has ruled that it is improper to describe furniture as Mediterranean, Italian, French, Spanish, English or Danish without further qualification.

According to the FTC, such unqualified terms might be misleading as to the place the furniture is made. The fact that most furniture advertisements carry the name and location of an American furniture manufacturer is not considered.

The furniture manufacturers believe the public has accepted geographical terms as descriptive of style and is not misled into thinking a Spanish chest, for example, was made in Spain.

It is interesting to note that in Europe now, one of the top selling styles is Early American. The furniture is not, of course, imported from this country. Our styles are being copied by European manufacturers and given names like "Raleigh" and "Richmond."

The Federal Trade Commission has also ruled against the use of wood names to describe finishes. A piece of furniture might be identified as having a fruitwood finish.

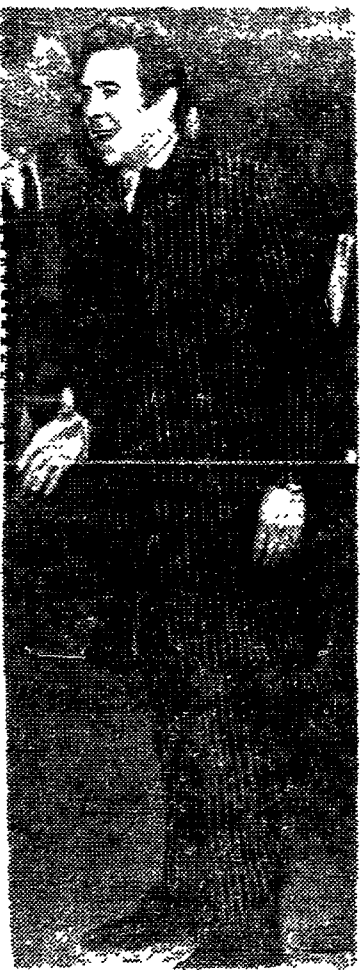

But this is now a violation of the rules unless all exposed surfaces are of solid wood of a fruit tree. The ruling does not account for the fact that the wood might be walnut, which is more expensive than fruitwood.

The Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association and the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers are requesting a revision. The current rules are confusing and must be continually interpreted, industry spokesmen said.

They said it is not the industry's purpose to disparage the good intentions of the FTC, but clear guidelines are needed so manufacturers can better inform the consumer.

Lengthen Life Of Paint Brushes

Your paint brushes will have a longer lifetime of satisfactory performance if you'll follow a few helpful hints from the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association. First, be sure to clean your brush thoroughly after completing a paint job. If you soak a brush in a solvent for any length of time, be sure to suspend it by its handle. Then let it dry in the same manner — suspended by the handle. You may store brushes by laying them flat or by suspending by the handles — but never stand a paint brush on its bristle tips.

Lord Snowdon Wears 'Shocker' Suit in London

By RONALD THOMSON

LONDON (AP) — Even Carnaby Street was taken aback today by Lord Snowdon's latest fashion fancy—a vivid, striped suit that made him look like a regency dandy with accents from the era of Bonnie and Clyde.

For every designer who said "smashing," there was one to mutter "shocking."

One called the suit a nightmare but kinder souls said Snowdon certainly was a well, snappy dresser.

Princess Margaret's 37-year-old husband was turned out in his symphony in stripes at Heathrow Airport Friday when the royal couple flew out for a vacation on the Caribbean isle of Barbados.

The outfit consisted of a tight-waisted, knee-length brown frock coat with broad gangster-style white stripes running up through a "highwayman's collar." Trousers of course matched. And under the coat was a green and orange striped shirt.

"Wham!" said London's Daily Sketch. "The outfit hit passengers straight between the eyes." None of the men's boutiques in Carnaby Street, where Snowdon often buys clothes, would admit to selling him the suit.

Crime Prevention Advice Offered Through BPW Kit

A crime-prevention program by the 178,000-member National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs was launched today with the presentation of a Crime Prevention Kit to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at the White House.

The kit — a "how-to-do-it" program for action by BPW members in their 3800 local clubs — was presented by Federation President Mabel R. McClanahan of Appleton.

Mrs. McClanahan, who had first discussed the forthcoming kit with Mrs. Johnson at a White House luncheon earlier this year, said that BPW was "responding to the challenge to all citizens to accept the responsibility to stand up for law and justice and to prevent crime."

Positive Steps

"We join you in feeling that crime is not inevitable, if we are willing to reject complacency and apathy and take positive steps toward prevention as individuals, as organizations and through community-wide programs."

Mrs. McClanahan pointed out that some of the suggestions in the kit are reminders of such simple basics as "obeying every law, even a speed limit or a jaywalking ordinance, to the letter to show that you respect and

Apartment Updated

A fresh facelift for a drab room needn't be expensive or extensive. Sometimes, an imaginative touch — an ornate room divider, an interesting wall accent, a decorative radiator enclosure, a unique piece of furniture — can work wonders.

The trick is knowing how to highlight a room and which materials will do the best job. One decorative material that's growing in popularity with both amateur do-it-yourselfers and professional designers because of its versatility is filigree hardboard. This is the airy-looking type of hardboard panel that has openwork design die-cut into the panels. Despite its delicate appearance, filigree hardboard panels are extremely sturdy, can be damp-wiped clean, and are easy to work, cut and shape with ordinary carpentry tools. Depending on its use and finish, filigree can look dainty, luxurious, dramatic or even exotic.

Room Design

can Institute of Interior Designers.

Mr. Krauss transformed an old, unfashionable one-room apartment into an elegantly functional living-sleeping, dining area with rich-looking fabric wall coverings, vivid area rugs and attractive double-duty furniture.

Focal highpoint of the room is a stylish armoire which could be built by any handyman. Standard-sized filigree panels form the doors of clothes cabinets flanking built-in bookshelves. Duplicate panels, cut to size, hide a TV and hi-fi. Filigree was chosen to give the heavy armoire a graceful air, and because the panels can be painted, or simply varnished or shellacked, to blend with the room decor.

Filigree panels also make beautiful connecting doors, privacy screens and room dividers. Installed on a wall, they become a decorative accent or an elegant backdrop for furniture groupings. They're also used effectively as window shutters, or can be installed — oriental-fashion — over a fixed pane of glass.

A TV Set, hi-fi and closet space are concealed behind a filigree paneled armoire built for both beauty and function.

Circle Plans Salad Luncheon, Style Show

Chairman of the event will be Mrs. Carl Stumpf. Mrs. D. W. Mc Kinnon and Mrs. A. Harold Martin will serve as co-chairmen of the refreshment committee.

Plans for a salad luncheon and style show scheduled for 1 p.m. April 25 at All Saints Episcopal Church were made. Co-chairmen will be Mrs. Gordon Steinberg and Mrs. Donald Utschig. Mrs. Davis will have charge of tickets; Mrs. David Weiland and Mrs. Robert Gordon, kitchen; Mrs. William Radke, decorations; Mrs. Joseph Moriarty, dining room; Mrs. E. J. Disinherited Chams Ruled During Early Vietnam History

By SUSAN BAUERNEFELD
Nearly 2,000 years ago, this land was ruled by a handsome and tough people — the Tchampa (Chams). A mixture of Indian and Khmer (Cambodian) indigenous tribes, they settled uninhabited lands between Saigon and Canton, China.

The Chinese called the Chams "Liny-y," forest sav-

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Chams are Vietnam's disinherited ones, a vanishing race. The Chams, who once ruled the land, believe that God is a woman, and now live virtually unaware of the war around them. When Susan Bauernefeld, Post-Crescent Staff Writer, served with the American Red Cross at Phan Rang, she paid a visit to a nearby village and wrote this report.

ages, because they almost always chose land that was bordered on one side by impenetrable forest.

These people were farmers essentially, and their lives were dominated by religion.

In the year 353 started a series of invasions that lasted 16 centuries. In 1822 the Chams were once and for all considered conquered. They became the disinherited ones of Vietnam.

Last Stronghold
One of the last Cham strongholds was in Phan Rang, 165 miles east-northeast of Saigon, where many Chams still live separate from their Vietnamese countrymen.

A 1,200-year-old three-tower temple, built in homage to the godking of irrigation, overlooks their villages and vast green valleys.

Chat Thuong, 8 miles southwest of Phan Rang, is a typical Cham village. The road leading to this community of 400 people winds through rich rice fields set against jagged mountains.

Inside the village gate is the home of a hamlet elder, 64-year-old Quang Dai Minh, a former national assemblyman representing the Cham people.

He wears the long skirt and turban traditional for Cham men, and as is the custom, wisps of hair hang down his neck.

Like Leap Year
He said he was born not far away but moved to his wife's village when they married.

Salad Luncheon Planned by Tripoli Unit

A salad bar luncheon will be sponsored by the Appleton Tripoli Unit of Shriners Auxiliary from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. March 16 at the Masonic Temple. An express table will be available for early diners.

Mrs. Florian Heinrich and Mrs. Elmer Daelke will be chairmen of the event which is open to the public. Mrs. Harold Podzilni will have charge of decorations and Mrs. Leroy Schultz and Mrs. Archie Mauk will direct dining room arrangements. Tickets and reservation will be handled by Mrs. Clarence Martin and Mrs. Gordon Rohm, and publicity by Mrs. Michael Gostas.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the auxiliary. All proceeds will be donated to the Shriners' Hospital, Minneapolis, Minn.

Still practiced, he said, is the custom of a girl choosing a husband and sending her parents with two kinds of cake as a proposal of marriage.

If a young man eats the cakes, he returns to the girl's village with her parents and they are married.

After that, the husband is head of the household.

Elder Quang Dai Minh wore two gold rings with a black stone in each for protection from evil spirits after he dies. His granddaughter-in-law wore four rings, but only for decoration. "Perhaps," she said, "I will believe in the evil spirits when I am old."

He believes the first Cham queen came from heaven in 758 and stayed on earth for 200 years. Then she gave over her reign to a king and rose again to heaven. This same queen created the entire world, he said.

Ruled in Vietnam
He thought the Chams had originated in China, and did not know they had ever ruled Vietnam, as once they did.

Their religion is based on respect for the queen that came from the sky, their ancestors who have the power to protect, and their kings.

Four times yearly, the Brahmin Chams must visit their temples, once in celebration of the new year, once to pray to ancestors, once to pray for crops and once to pray for peace.

On any day, however, Cham women religious dancers may be called to a home to appease an offended ancestor or to ask for a special favor.

Chat Thuong village was neat and well designed. Each home — of wood, mud or cement — had a courtyard and fence with a gate.

All streets were hedged with interwoven branches. Children skipped along, looking happy and healthy.

Ages Intermingle
Old and new are intermingled in the village. An old woman, preparing a chew of red betel nut, stands in front of a modern small meal factory; a 20th century doctor visits once a week to treat Chams who wear link necklaces to ward off disease.

So it is in one village of the vanishing Chams — a people whose temples once awed Marco Polo; who have no written history of their own, but who teach their children Sanskrit, the ancient language of scholars.

The Chams have a saying that "love has no limit," but they do not intermarry. Their numbers dwindle and the land with a war they hardly know once theirs is torn end to end exists.

History Influences Texas Designers

BY JACKIE KRUG

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The Texas Fashion Creators' Association opened its 18th annual Press Week showings of women's and children's fashions today at the HemisFair site. In keeping with the HemisFair '68 theme, Texas designers have studied the historic costumes of other continents, incorporating some facets of them in their styles.

From the Alpine countries they took the laced bodice and dirndl skirt trimmed with flowered embroidery. The high waist, tied with ribbon, and the low neckline was borrowed from the court of Napoleon. They imported the tiered skirt and fitted bolero from Spain and Renaissance lace from Italy.

The new, feminine look in fashions fits perfectly into this historic mood. Romantic sleeves end in a froth of lace or eyelet. Necklines are scooped out and softened with collars and flounces. Lines follow the body and outline the waist with insets, belts and seams.

Skirts widen into a flip of pleats, swinging gores or frothy dirndls. The look emphasizes frills and old-fashioned prettiness.

Active Clothes

For touring the HemisFair and San Antonio, and almost any other summer travel activity you may have planned, Texas designers have provided a group of active clothes — skirts and culottes — which don't restrict movement. Non-wrinkling blends and knits fold into suitcases and come out fresh and smooth.

One of five teen-agers in the United States is obese; one of five adults is obese. Could this mean that obesity in the teen persists in the adult?

Obesity — dangerous overweight — usually carries over from adolescence to maturity. This fact has been substantiated by the studies of the American Society of Bariatrics, an association of physicians specializing in obesity. What's more, the earlier in life obesity is treated the better, for the sake of present and future well-being.

Certainly no teen-ager should be left to cope with serious overweight alone. Left on her own she will fall into diet practices that get transient results or, worse, injure her health.

To lose a large amount of weight without painful side effects and keep it off, a girl needs the sympathetic support of her family and her doctor. Her doctor will set a pattern of eating for her, not of starving; also a pattern of physical activity.

Her family will set an example of proper nutrition and exercise habits. Too often, overweight youngsters come from homes where parents are careless of their own weight problems.

How will Miss Teen respond? If she's the girl she knows herself to be, she will try to follow her doctor's advice and to appreciate her family's loving care. And she will do one very important thing on her own — find an absorbing interest. Not food, something that feeds her charm!

Patience Needed for Paint Job

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have a small chest of drawers which I would like to give a black, mirror-like finish, the type I have seen on old Chinese screens. How is this done? — Hartford.

A: One of the main requirements is patience. Another is time. Here's how: Sand the chest as glass-smooth as possible. After wiping off all sawdust with turpentine, spray on two coats of the black lacquer. Allow ample drying time between coats. Then spray or brush on coat after thin coat of clear lacquer. After each coat dries out, sand lightly and apply the next. In this case, the more coats you put on, the deeper and more three-dimensional the effect will be. Fifteen to 20 coats are not unusual. But the effect is worth every bit of time and effort.

Q: With my in-laws coming to live here, I am concerned about making our throw rugs non-skid. How do I do this? — Grand Rapids.

A: Get anti-skid spray at a supermarket and treat underside. Or sew a row of rubber rings around the underside of each rug's edge; the type of ring used to seal home canning jars.

Pair Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Howard V. Melby, 330 W. Summer St., marked their 50th wedding anniversary at a surprise party Friday evening at Alex's Manor House.

The couple was married March 1, 1918, in St. Paul, Minn. They moved to Appleton in 1926. Mr. Melby was employed at Tuttle Press Co. until his retirement in 1963.

The couple has four children, Mrs. Harvey Buntrock, Thomas, Richard and Ralph Melby, all of Appleton. There are 10 grandchildren.

Few Rodents Rabid, But Bats Dangerous

If your child is bitten by a squirrel, chipmunk, field mouse, or by a pet such as a rabbit, hamster, gerbil, or guinea pig, don't panic. The likelihood of his needing rabies shots is quite remote. This is the comforting advisory from the editors of the "New England Journal of Medicine," who pointed out recently that in Massachusetts, for instance, a rabid squirrel has never been identified, although about 400 have been examined over the years.

Health workers in Arkansas, Tennessee, and Minnesota, where some 859 rodents have been examined, including 288 squirrels, have not found a single rabid animal. Nonetheless "it is theoretically possible for the infection to develop in any warm animal," the editors noted, "and rabies has been observed at least once in New York State and Maryland."

Give Bats Respect

Other animals, such as skunks, foxes, raccoons, and bats do carry the disease frequently enough for the editors to urge that it is best "to leave wild animals alone. Bats should be given plenty of respect."

The best advice, they say, is not to handle bats if it can be avoided. They will usually fly out an open window or door if unmolested. If someone is bitten, he should report at once to his doctor, with the bat's body, if possible. Anyone who owns a dog or cat should have the animal immunized against rabies.

People Attracted to Scene Of Tragedy Repulse Writer

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was driving home last night and passed a horrible automobile accident. There were several police cars with flashing lights, sirens, ambulances, and of course a huge mob of bystanders.

Landers

and get their eyes full. I had an impulse to scream at the spectators, "What if it were your mother or husband or child whose mangled body was being lifted out of the wreckage? Would you want a pack of strangers standing around as if they were watching a movie?"

What is there about bloodshed and tragedy that draws strangers? What so twists the mind that it actually enjoys viewing the horrible sights? I have been searching for an answer to this question and I hope you can provide it. — Hartford, Connecticut

Dear Hart: It is a human characteristic to crave excitement, stimulation, something different from the ordinary (and often dull) pattern of daily existence. People are attracted to situations which involve destruction, disaster, conflict and agony (particularly somebody else's) — simply because it's exciting. Fascination for the morbid exists in all of us. It may be several layers beneath the civilized man, but it is there nonetheless. This explains the huge success of bullfights, auto races, prize fights — and the crowds who gather at accidents and fires. I guess the answer to your question is that man is not quite as civilized as we would like to believe.

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am a supermarket checker and one day I am going to write a book about the public You wouldn't believe the things people do when they think nobody is looking.

I will confine myself to one complaint which bothers me most — it's the woman who goes marketing and doesn't know how much money she has to spend When it dawns on her that she has more items in her cart than she can pay for, she starts unloading any old place. It's not so bad when the items are canned goods or cereal, but frozen foods and steaks and dairy products do spoil. It's maddening to find four double-rib lamb chops hidden behind the detergents.

Please print this letter for the benefit of people who don't know any better. — Other Side of the Counter

Dear Other Side: I disagree that these people don't know any better. Bad manners and a lack of consideration for someone else's property are at the bottom of this crude behavior. So here's your letter and a word from me: If you can't pay for it, girls, take it back where you got it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 17 but very mature for my age and I look older. I am in love with a wonderful man who is 33 but he is very boyish looking and acts young, too. By the way, he is my uncle. I should make it clear that he is not a blood relative, he is an uncle by marriage.

We have had many long talks and I have a feeling he is going to ask me to marry him. My friends don't think it will work. I'd like your opinion. — Real Eyelashes

Dear Real: Uncles are nice, but not as husbands. When you say he is an uncle by marriage, I hope you don't mean he is a married man. In any event, the whole thing is like forget it on the grounds that he is too old for you. By the way, where are your parents?

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1968)

Marine From Kimberly Dies Of Fall Injury

Cpl. James A. Corey Hurt in Accident While in Vietnam

KIMBERLY — A 20-year-old Kimberly Marine, who suffered severe head injuries when he fell from a truck in South Vietnam Feb. 8, died Saturday at U.S. Naval Hospital, Guam.

Dead is Lance Cpl. James A. Corey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Corey, 210 John St. His parents learned of their son's death Saturday.

The Jansen Funeral Home, Kimberly, is handling the funeral arrangements, which still had not been completed Monday morning.

Corey was in "critical" condition since he fell from the moving truck in Quang Tri Province. His prognosis was "poor to guarded," Marine officials had reported to his parents following the mishap.

Transferred to Guam
He was treated at a station hospital in Da Nang before being transferred to the Naval Hospital in Guam.

Corey, a 1965 graduate of Kimberly High School, joined the Marines in December, 1966, and went to Vietnam last August. His parents said he was assigned to an ammunitions detail.

The victim's father was flown by the Marine Corps to Guam to be with Corey and will accompany the body, which is expected to arrive here tonight.

'Y' Leader On National Committee

Mrs. Vanevenhoven Will Serve 3 Years With Youth Program

Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, women, girls, and young adult program director at the Appleton Family YMCA, has been appointed to a three-year term on the National YMCA Youth Program Committee.

The 25-member Youth Program Committee is responsible for all programs (other than physical education) for youth through high school age, and for all camping programs.

Presently, Mrs. Vanevenhoven serves as chairman of the State YMCA Leadership and Officers Training Conference. She also is on the five-state YMCA Area Program Services Committee, and has served on the YMCA National Women and Girls Program Committee.

She helped organize the first Tri-Hi-Y State Conference and for the past seven years has served as adviser for the Wisconsin YMCA Youth in Government Program.

Mrs. Vanevenhoven was selected for the national youth committee because of the wide scope of programs for youths and women at the Appleton YMCA. More than 3,000 of the 6,000 members of the YMCA are women and girls. This does not include the teens in the Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs.

Tot Subject Of Search At Kimberly

KIMBERLY — Bruce Janssen, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Janssen, 209 S. Helen St., caused his parents and police a few anxious moments here Sunday afternoon when he wandered off while playing near his home.

The boy was playing with older children about 5 p.m. Sunday and was not missed until about 6 p.m. The family called police after searching the neighborhood. Police joined in the search and began to make arrangements to drag the river after spotting a hole in the ice in the Sunset Park boat landing area.

Neighbors were organizing search parties when the lad was noticed walking toward home. He had been in the home of a neighboring boy and was not known to be missing.

Vandalizing Burglars Damage Boiler at Fountain Lumber Co.

A boiler at Fountain Lumber Co., 129 N. State St., was damaged in a weekend burglary, Appleton police said this morning.

Although details of the break-in were still under investigation, the burglars reportedly turned the water on in a boiler, causing it to overflow and stop functioning.

Entry also was made into a warehouse at the firm, but it was not immediately determined if anything was taken.

More Than 130 sets of wheels were handed out Thursday night at Appleton Fire Station No. 1 to Valley area boys who have signed up for the annual Soap Box Derby, scheduled June 16 in Appleton. Two racers, Barry Long, left, and Jerry Jackson, receive their equipment and instructions from two adults involved in the project, Russell Luebben, left, coordinator for the fire department, and Leonard Hess, building clinic chairman. Thursday was the final official day for signing up for the derby, co-sponsored by Gibson Chevrolet and the Appleton Jaycees. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Common Practice in Past

Mayor Can't Issue Licenses, City Attorney Tells Council

The Appleton City Council — under state law — does not have the right to extend its licensing authority to the mayor or anyone else in city government, according to a city attorney's opinion.

The opinion was requested recently by the council's welfare-ordinance committee. City Atty. David Geenen responded.

Prompting the request was the okay by the committee and approval of the mayor and clerk in issuing a license to Slim Otto's Tavern a few days before the application had been approved by the council.

Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) raised the question at the last council meeting.

Common Practice

However, records show that it has been common practice over the past years to grant a license in advance of a council meeting when inspection requirements were met.

Mayor George Buckley as well as his predecessor Clarence Mitchell signed the temporary licenses through the city clerk's office.

Geenen said under state law the mayor could issue licenses only when they call for administrative discretion on his part

Paper Institute, Lawrence Will Share in Fund

Appleton's Institute of Paper Chemistry and Lawrence University are among nine Wisconsin schools to share $23,600 as part of the annual aid-to-education program of 3M Company, St. Paul, Minn.

The Institute will receive $3,500 grant-in-aid while Lawrence will receive $1,000 for one or more non-technical under-graduate scholarships, as the university chooses.

The mining and manufacturing firm will give about $472,000 in cash during the 1968-69 academic year to colleges and universities in 39 states and foreign countries.

Mayoral, Judicial Primaries Hold Interest

Moderate Voter Turnout Expected

A moderate voter turnout is predicted Tuesday for Appleton's second mayoral primary election in a quarter century.

This year for the first time the mayor's job calls for a four-year term at $15,000 per year.

The two top vote-getters will battle it out in the April 2 general election.

Mayor George Buckley, seeking his second term, is being challenged by Alds. Roy Pointer (14th) and William Wachtendonk (3rd) and former mayor Clarence A. Mitchell.

Supervisor Contests

In addition there will be primaries for city council positions in the 7th, 18th and 20th Wards; a countywide judgeship race; plus primaries for some county board supervisor seats.

At last count, 22,570 Appleton residents have been registered to vote, according to City Clerk Elden Broehm, who is forecasting a turnout of about 12,000.

and had no connection with the legislative functions of the council.

Must Be Approved

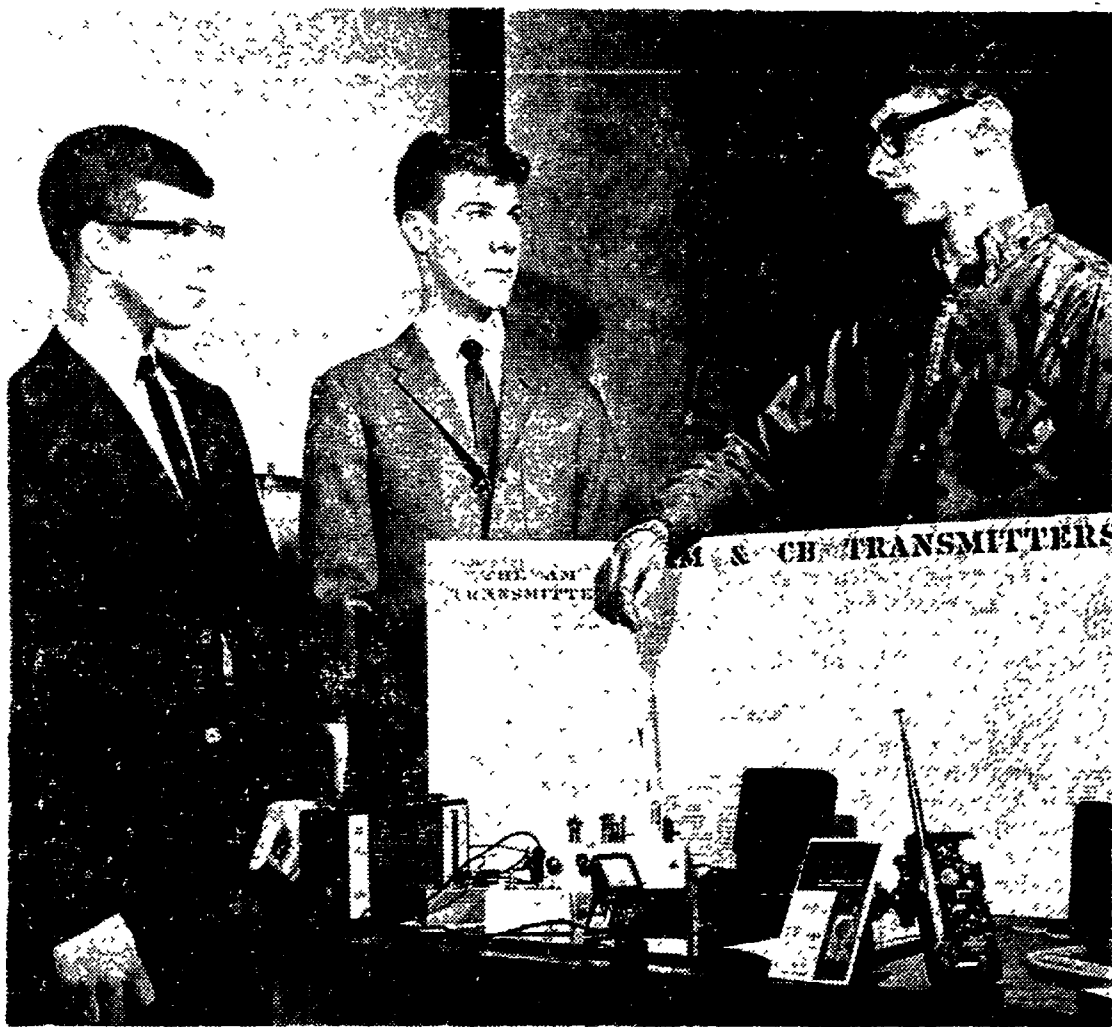

"No license relating to the intoxicating liquor field could be issued by him (the mayor) . . .," Geenen said. He said this also applied to bartender licenses.

All applications must be first approved by the council before licenses can be issued. Even if the welfare-ordinance committee has given prior approval, this does not meet state requirements it was indicated.

The committee asked for the opinion so there would be no future misunderstanding. It said previous city attorneys indicated the practice was valid.

It was noted the city's municipal code contains a provision which would allow the mayor to okay issuance of a license if the applicant is entitled to one and has to wait until the next meeting of the city council.

However, the code is in conflict with state law which takes precedence and will undoubtedly be revised now that an opinion has been rendered.

Electronics and Auto mechanics projects won the two top places in the 13th annual Fox Valley Lutheran High School Science Fair Friday. George Kirk, left, Kimberly, president of the Science Club, looks over the exhibits of Allan Roerig, Kaukauna, who won second place with his auto mechanics display, and Mike Flenz, Neenah, who received the top award for his electronics project. Nine projects geared toward science education are on display at the school.

Park Commission Opinion Sought on McKinley Area

Proposed Condominium Not A Sacred Heart Parish Project, Priest Explains

The park-recreation commission will be asked to determine whether the old McKinley School property should be developed into a park on Appleton's southside.

This was the decision today of the city plan commission after hearing from residents in the McKinley School area, plus representatives of a group interested in building a high-rise condominium (apartment).

Before the commission held its hearing, Mayor George Buckley informed the group that a representative of the park-recreation commission had sent a letter to the city council indicating interest in the property.

He also said the city had received a petition signed by 85 persons in the McKinley School area opposing any sale of the school site or playground area for an apartment development, and urging it be made into a park-recreation area.

Recommends Keeping

City Planner Walter Rasmussen recommended the school board or city not dispose of the McKinley property when the new McKinley School is opened sometime in the fall.

Rasmussen took issue with the board of education position that the site would never be required for a school in the future.

Supt. of Schools William Spears appeared before the commission at its request again this morning and reaffirmed the school board's position. However, Spears said he could not predict the impact of shifts of parochial children to public schools, which has been a trend.

Rasmussen, in his report to the commission, raised several questions and pointed out the city's comprehensive plan called for a grade school in the McKinley School area of the city.

Rasmussen indicated the population and planning trends in that area may well call for a new school — smaller than the 1,000-student type now being erected — to serve the interior population of the city.

Ald. Arthur Hoolihan (11th) urged the commission not to make any recommendation on future use of the property which the school board said it would turn over to the city, when no longer needed in September.

Two members of Sacred Heart parish appeared and said the condominium was not a parish project and should not be thought of as such, but that it was a private development and parishioners were concerned over the publicity or possible inference that it was involved financially.

The Rev. Wilbert Staudenmaier told the commission it was his idea to encourage a condominium to provide housing for the elderly. Under such a setup, tenants would actually purchase their apartments.

Father Staudenmaier said a

Now at Full Strength

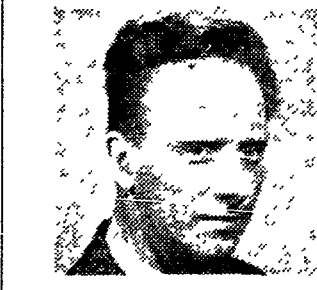

7 New Men Join Police Department

Seven men began work this morning with the Appleton Police Department, according to Police Chief Earl O. Wolff.

Three men were hired to fill vacancies in the department, and the other four were hired under City Council authorization last year to expand the force by four men. The force is now up to full 78-man strength. Wolff said today. All of the men will undergo extensive training before receiving patrol assignments.

The new policemen are Robert A. Mitchell, 24, 331½ W. Foster St.; Daniel A. Wouters, 28, 1807 E. College Ave.; William J. Leinbach, 26, 1815 N. Union St.; and Michael J. Schleinz, 21, 909 N. Division St., all of Appleton, and Donald J. Barker, 21, Hortonville; John P. Nelson, 1614 Cedar St., Oshkosh; and John Roehl, 23, 202 E. Wolf River Ave., New London.

Mitchell, who worked for the Appleton Park and Forestry Department, is a Marine Corps veteran of 14 months, having seen active duty in Vietnam. He was discharged as a corporal. Mitchell also saw duty in military police.

He is an Appleton native and graduated from Fox Valley Lutheran High School. He is married.

Kaukauna Native

Wouters, a Kaukauna native, served eight years in the Army, and was discharged as a staff sergeant in 1966. The graduate of Kaukauna High School worked as a truck driver for Fore Way Express Co., Inc., before joining the police department.

He and his wife, Diane, have two children. Leinbach, a veteran of eight years in the Air Force, worked as a draftsman for the North-

Two Brothers Fined $50 In Beer Sale

Two Bear Creek brothers were fined $50 and costs each, or 24 days in jail, after they were found guilty this morning of selling beer to a 16-year-old Shioccon boy on Sept. 1.

Melvin and Marvin Kamke, both 30, and both of route 1, Bear Creek, pleaded no contest in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Judge Gustave J. Keller found them guilty.

The brothers, who operate Pleasant View Ballroom near New London, were charged following investigation by Outagamie County authorities. Police said the boy who bought the beer was involved in a rape incident last year.

Air Wisconsin Given Permission to Build Addition to Terminal

Airport Committee Also Plans Study on Future Space Needs

Permission was granted for Air Wisconsin to build a 14 by 30 foot addition to the terminal building at Outagamie County Airport for office space and, at the same time, the airport committee decided to consider a complete study on future terminal needs.

Air Wisconsin would build the addition at its own expense and pay the county 3 cents a square foot rental for the land. The addition would revert to county ownership either at the end of Air Wisconsin's lease or at such time the county builds a permanent terminal building. Air Wisconsin estimated the cost of the addition at $5,400.

Supv. Paul Kostka, Little Chute chairman of the airport committee, said the county should decide whether they want a new terminal. "We need a long-range use study," said Supv. John Dietz, Appleton.

No Money Now

County Board Chairman Sylvester Esler, Appleton, reminded the committee the county did not have the money to build a new terminal now and "I don't know where we would go to get it." He suggested they wait until the present expansion program is finished to see whether there will be any funds left from sale of the old airport property.

Esler also reported that State Division of Aeronautics officials now indicate it may be the middle of May before contracts can be let for the 1,800 foot addition to the northeast-southwest runway. The county had originally been led to believe bids could be taken by the middle of this month.

Land-Lease

Esler said the project specifications will be in the hands of the state by Thursday but then must be approved by both the state and the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) before bids can be taken.

Also coming under study by the committee for future action were the zoning ordinance and land-lease standards for the airport.

County Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath said he obtained copies of ordinances from neighboring airports and will work from them. A proposed land-lease arrangement for future leases at the airport also was introduced but will be studied for local modification before any action is taken.

Also under study is a rental rate for airplane tie-down at the airport.

66-Year-Old Woman Battles Four Policemen

A 66-year-old woman whom police had to pull out of her car and later force into a jail cell, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and was fined $200 and costs or another 90 days in jail after she pleaded guilty this morning to charges of disorderly conduct and driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Mrs. Ella M. Pfund, 131 E. Lindbergh, St., appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

An Appleton Police Department patrolman said he was driving on W. Wisconsin Avenue about 1:05 a.m. Sunday when his squad car was nearly struck by Mrs. Pfund's auto, which turned in front of him at Meade Street.

Forced to Stop

He said he pursued her for four blocks, with red lights and siren operating. When she would not pull over, he got in front of her car and forced her to a stop.

Mrs. Pfund reportedly swore at him and refused to show her driver's license. The patrolman called for a sergeant, who got her to show her driver's license, but who also was subjected to swearing and abuse.

He asked her several times to get out of the car, and when she refused, he informed her she was under arrest for disorderly conduct.

Four Get Her Out

The sergeant and two patrolmen tried unsuccessfully to get her out of the car. Police said she held onto the steering wheel and swore and kicked. A captain also was summoned to the scene, and the four policemen finally got Mrs. Pfund out of the car.

They took her to the county jail where she again caused a disturbance. She kicked a jail matron and would not allow police to close the cell door, police said. At one point, she slapped a patrolman in the face.

In addition to the fine and sentence, Mrs. Pfund got a stern lecture this morning from Judge Gustave J. Keller, who also revoked her driver's license for one year.

Flaming Ceiling 'Let Loose' With Pair of Firemen Inside

NEENAH — It was a terrifying experience for several firemen who groped through the blazing buildings early Sunday morning at Jerry's Lakeside Bar and Hotel searching for tenants.

"I've never been so scared," one fireman said.

Fireman Richard Olson, who suffered burns on his neck, ears and wrists along with deep cuts over his eyes, added, "I thought we were done."

Olson said this morning he had entered the liquor storage sector of the building with Capt. Ronald Mertz and then were on their way down into the basement to get a set of keys. "We didn't know how many men were still upstairs."

"The heat really had us down, pinned to the floor," he stated. "The smoke belched out at us all at once and we groped around trying to find the way out."

"The ceiling let loose and the fire was getting so hot we knew we had to get out."

"On Our Knees"

"We couldn't find our way; we were down on our knees and we started to holler. First we crawled in the direction where the answer seemed to come and found it was the wrong way," Olson said.

"We hollered again and the heat had us forced down. I could breathe alright, my oxygen was okay, but Ronnie (Mertz) had gone into the building once before and his supply was limited."

Olson continued, "I thought we were done. Then I tripped over some liquor bottles and hit the fireman lying on the floor, answering our call. Ron was behind me; I grabbed him by the boot, pulling him along.

"The emotion was there when we hit the doorway. I'm not sure I touched the steps, but exploded onto the cement. I don't remember anything after that, but I think my safety goggles hit the cement and that is how my left eye was cut."

Frost Bite

Mertz suffered minor injuries as did Fireman Joseph Birling who is still in Theda Clark Hospital under treatment for smoke inhalation and frost-bitten ears.

Two tenants of the building, Ernest Wittkopf, 42, and Andrew Schlender, 60, also suffered minor injuries in the blaze. Schlender was found lying on a stairway in the old building, which at one time served as an ice house and brewery.

Only eight of the 20 tenants were in the hotel at the time of the fire. Most of them had left for the weekend. "If it hadn't been the weekend," said Gerald Bayer, one of the managers, who was at the scene, "Some of them would have been lying up there."

'Smashed Window'

"Someone knocked on my door and then smoke piled out of the doorway," Glenn Wolosek, one of the boarders said. "I grabbed what I could, smashed a window and got onto the roof." The fire truck ladder reached him there.

For about two hours after firemen were on the scene, there was little visible flame. Firemen from the two cities steadily poured water, estimated at about 700,000 gallons, on the building. But it continued to billow smoke.

About 4 a.m., the flames started shooting through the windows and then leapt through the roof.

Four Injured In Appleton Traffic Mishaps

Cars Hit Trees, Utility Pole, Rail Crossing Gate

Four persons were injured in three one-car accidents in Appleton Sunday night and early today.

Two of the injured were teenagers, hurt about 9:10 p.m. Sunday when the car in which they were passengers struck a utility pole and a tree at W. Lorain and N. Bennett Streets.

Taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by ambulance were Sharon Foster, 17, 835 E. John St., and Jack Downie, 18, 1218 S. Memorial Drive. Police said that Miss Foster had bruised ribs and Downie suffered head cuts.

According to police, a car driven by David L. Brunette, 21, 218½ Main St., Little Chute, was southbound on Bennett, turning west onto Lorain, when it went out of control, struck a pole, crossed the road and struck a tree, then continued on, running over a refuse container and stopping back on the road way.

Cab Hits Tree

Ronald W. Greunke, 24, 2513 N. Appleton St., was taken by ambulance to Appleton Memorial Hospital about 2:30 a.m. today with head injuries he suffered when the taxi cab he was driving went out of control and struck a tree in the 200 block of N. Oneida Street.

Police said Greunke was northbound on Oneida when the accident occurred.

John Kobal, 1121 W. Spencer St., suffered head injuries but was not hospitalized when the car in which he was a passenger struck a traffic signal and a railroad crossing gate about 12:20 a.m. today at W. College Avenue and N. Richmond Street.

Police said Kobal was in a car driven by Joyce E. Leith, 32, 1130 W. Eighth St. The woman said she was talking to her passenger when the car struck the automatic signal, crossed over a traffic island and rammed the crossing gate.

blaze was the north wind which carried sparks directly into the yards of the Lieber Lumber Co. Employees of the firm patrolled the grounds and a fireman was placed on the roof of the storage buildings to put out sparks. A fire rig was stationed near the structures.

Fire Chief Ferd Diesterhaupt said the cause of the fire hadn't been determined. The state fire marshal was called in on the investigation this morning.

At one point, firemen feared a deaf mute, one of the tenants of the hotel, was trapped in the blaze. However, they discovered later he was not in the hotel at the time of the fire.

The buildings are owned by Norvald Smith, 209 S. Lake St. At least part of the loss is covered by insurance, one of the managers said.

Avenue Zoning Request Denied

Plan Commission Turns Down Plea For Commercial Use

Over the strong objection of Ald. Al Stoegbauer (4th) the Appleton Plan Commission today recommended denial of a rezoning request of Ralph Wettengel for the property at 1103 W. College Ave.

City and regional planners had opposed the rezoning on the claim it would extend the avenue commercial strip too far.

Wettengel sent the city a letter in which he said he wanted to build a business establishment on the site which is now zoned for residential purposes.

He said everyone seemed to think that College Avenue some day would be one long commercial strip.

Stoegbauer said he agreed and felt the city should okay the rezoning because it would add to the tax base by having a commercial venture constructed, estimating it would cost about $40,000 to $50,000.

Wettengel is with Gen-Ral, Inc., distributors of sewing machines and vacuum cleaners.

In other business, the commission was also informed of offers made by two firms — one from Milwaukee — interested in building in the new industrial park.

A Lawrence University freshman will be one of the three recipients of National Young American medals to be presented by President Lyndon Johnson.

Mary Lynne Donohue, 18, Sheboygan, will receive a medal for service in 1966, particularly for her work with the Sheboygan Association of Youth, according to a letter Saturday from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Miss Donohue, William G. Glynn III, 16, Westbury, N.Y., and Carmalita Capilla, 19, Kailua, Hawaii, were chosen from 70 nominees. Glynn will receive a medal for saving a drowning man and Miss Capilla for her work with mental patients.

As president of the Sheboygan Association of Youth, Miss Donohue directed more than 1,000 youths in fund-raising projects for the USO, March of Dimes and other causes. She also recruited volunteers for the and other causes. She also recruited volunteers for the Head Start program and was on the steering committee of the Sheboygan Human Rights Association.

Taxi Cab Driver Found Dead in Bed

Gilbert Beyer, 54, 524 N. Morrison St., was found dead in bed about 8:30 a.m. today.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps, said that Beyer had been dead since last Saturday. Cause of death will be established following laboratory testing, Kemps said.

Beyer, who had lived at the rooming house about a week, was a taxi cab driver. His landlady found the body this morning.

The body was released to the Ellenbecker - Andersen Funeral Home.

Hortonville Youth Injured When Car Hits Tree

James N. Jentz, 18, route 2, Hortonville, was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital after his car struck a tree on School Road, 4½ miles west of Appleton, about 4 a.m. Sunday.

Outagamie County police said Jentz suffered a cut lip, abrasions to his hands, and forehead and elbow injuries. Jentz reportedly hit the tree when he swerved to avoid striking a deer. His 1963 auto was extensively damaged.

Margo A. Aikens, 23, 506 N. Division St., suffered minor injuries about 12:35 a.m. Sunday when her car left Outagamie County Trunk E, at U. S. 41, and went down an embankment. State police said she slowed to turn right onto the entrance ramp onto the southbound lane of U. S. 41, when the tie rod on her car snapped, causing her to lose control.

Valley Couples View Rescue

Three Fox Valley couples were aboard the Miami-based cruise ship which sailed into Cuban territorial waters Thursday to assist a burning Liberian freighter about one mile off the island's northeast coast.

The Sunward, which sails under the Norwegian flag, was returning to Miami from a week's cruise to Jamaica. It altered its course for rescue operations, after receiving permission from the Norwegian Embassy in Washington.

The Coast Guard estimated that the 328-foot freighter probably carried a crew of 20 to 25 men.

The fire was serious and lifeboats were put out from the freighter. The Sunward maneuvered as close as possible to be able to launch

Lawrence Professor To Lecture About Mathematics Treatise

Lawrence University mathematician Eugene B. Davis will discuss Ernest Nagel's and James R. Newman's book, "Goedel's Proof," in lectures at 9:50 and 11:10 a.m. Tuesday in room 161 of Youngchild Hall.

The book concerns a 1931 treatise by German mathematician Kurt Goedel, who tried to demonstrate that certain fundamental propositions in mathematics are logically impossible to prove.

Davis, a faculty member since 1966, is an assistant professor. He received bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. degrees from Stanford University, and worked there as a teaching assistant from 1962 to 1966. vancement of Science.

Heavy Vote Predicted in Twin Cities

NEENAH-MENASHA — The city clerks of the Twin Cities have predicted a voter turnout of 60 per cent the total registered to cast ballots in Tuesday's elimination races to determine the April 2 candidates for mayors.

Menasha Clerk Harry Kind said response has been strong among absentee voters who have come to his office in recent days to mark ballots in advance of the Tuesday voting. Such pre-election voting is often a good indicator of the kind of turnout to expect when the polls open.

Neenah Clerk R. V. Hauser, however, cast a wavering eye on previous spring election turnout figures as he made his prediction to match Kind's. He pointed out that previous spring elections in recent years have failed to draw as high as 50 per cent of the total voters registered.

Interest High

In each city, however, interest is apparently running high as four men campaign hard for berths on the April ballots that will include the name of each of the two new mayors.

The Neenah election takes added heat from a parallel campaign to promote a switch from mayor to city manager in April. Voting Tuesday, however, will only be to narrow the field of mayoral candidates from four to two.

Several years ago, Vince Lombardi and the Green Bay Packers proved that champions do come back. Politically, good men have proved this for generations. Things and circumstances need change now and then, and when results are not up to expectations, it's wise to return to proven experience. Clarence Mitchell has been a former mayoralty champion: he remains a champion of many civic affairs: he deserves—and will appreciate—the opportunity to champion Appleton's cause again.

Wisconsin Income Tax
Easy Steps Can Save Worry at Audit Time

By NORMAN E. SCHLEY
For The Associated Press
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Smith:
Your income tax return is being examined. Please come to this office on the date and time shown so that we may complete the examination as soon as possible. Please bring with you records, receipts, cancelled checks and other data which will substantiate the items checked below.

Some taxpayers have received letters like this and have become somewhat adjusted to the situation. On the other hand, many taxpayers have never had their returns questioned, and a letter of this type will quite likely set off a nervous reaction when this "first in a lifetime" request arrives. To the honest, record-keeping taxpayer, there should be no panicking.

Schley

First of all, the day and date set by the tax auditor is not necessarily a fixed and unchangeable one. Quite naturally, the government, with thousands of returns to examine, sets a specific date to get the matter moving. Usually two or three weeks are allowed from the date of the letter, but this date can be changed by the taxpayer if necessary. You should plan to give the matter your immediate attention and determine whether or not you can have the necessary information available to meet the auditor on the date set.
If you can, fine, but if for some good reason you know that you cannot appear on the date selected, get in touch with the auditor immediately. Tax auditors are busy men, and if you cannot appear on the date set, you should not wait until the last minute to make a new appointment.

Certain Items

Usually the auditor is interested in checking certain items on your return, and in his notice he will indicate those which he wants you to substantiate. He may wish to see certain receipts for taxes, repairs, interest, contributions or medical and dental expenses. If you are in business, he may want to know how you are accounting for goods withdrawn from your operations for personal use, the methods you have used in determining depreciation, bad debts, losses, travel, auto or entertainment expenses.
The person who has filed a farm return may find it necessary to prove the cost of feed, seed, fertilizer, lime or supplies deducted. Perhaps you have sold your home, were engaged in investment transactions or sustained a casualty loss, and the information you supplied with the return is not considered adequate for verification purposes.
At all events, the careful taxpayer, in preparing his original returns, did so from documents that were filed away with his retained copy of the return. His visit with the tax auditor should not be anticipated as a painful one.

Keep Records

The "careful" taxpayer is quite naturally one, who depending on the complexities of his financial picture, has maintained adequate records. It's the taxpayer who sits down at the kitchen table at the last minute and with inadequate records and perhaps a certain amount of guessing and estimating attempts to fill out his returns. He hasn't kept all of the receipts that he should have during the year and because he has waited until the 11th hour, finds he doesn't have time to get duplicates from his doctor, insurance man or druggist. Returns prepared in this manner are bound to be troublesome if the auditor

State Employees
Group to Begin Salary Talks

Across-the-Board Raises Sought for All Civil Servants

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The first round of collective bargaining and negotiations with the Legislature's joint finance committee, under a new collective bargaining law, will begin soon, the Wisconsin State Employees Association reports.

The association will try to negotiate a new general pay plan, supplementing benefits approved by the 1967 Legislature, as well as across-the-board raises for all of the state's thousands of civil servants.

Roy Kubista, long-time manager of the association, says it is now beginning to collect the higher dues from members that were approved as a means of financing the new bargaining and negotiation efforts.

The WEA now gets $1.60 a month from each member of a local civil service employe chapter. Twenty cents of that amount will be segregated for a legal defense fund to pay for members' attorney fees in cases arising out of their employment, he added.

Kubista cited one kind of pay lag in the state civil service that he called serious.

He said recruitment and retention of officers at state penal and correctional institutions has become a critical problem, because in spite of the special training requirements demanded, many state cities pay up to $100 a month more in salaries to their freshly recruited local policemen.

Kubista said staff vacancies at the state prison in Waupun are increasing, and that "posts may be left uncovered affecting the security of the institution."

He said starting wage for guards at the prison is now $432 a month, while the City of Waupun, where the prison is located, pays its rookies $495.

He suggests a visit to his office. A certain amount of panicking on the part of the taxpayer is bound to result.

Recommended for all taxpayers is a checking account and a "New Year's resolution" to pay by bank check all expenses that
return. The man involved in traveling can cut his problems to a minimum by making use of one or more of the popular charge cards, making notations on the voucher. The small businessman should make sure that his accounting system is adequate. Refer your tax problems to a CPA or tax attorney.

Great Decisions Series

England Described as Island of Stability
In World of Change

Once-powerful England may be relegated to the role of "an island of stability in a world of change," in the view of British historian Harry M. Hutson, dean of the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center.

Hutson addressed an audience of 50 recently at the Appleton family YMCA on the topic,
"Britain after Empire — New Role for an Old Ally?" The talk was part of a Great Decisions discussion series.

Assessing England's decline as an economic and social force, Hutson said that her most important contribution today may be "as a kind of anchor in this world," and as a useful critic of American policies.

Blessings and Wounds
He said that England is largely a product of the 19th and 20th centuries, and that she has had "both blessings and serious wounds" throughout her history.

On the one hand, he said, the period brought her a spirit of reform "which made her one of the most advanced, if not the most advanced country" in the world.

At the same time, however, Hutson noted her gradual decline of imperialism; a slowed economy, "largely because of world competition;" and her "severely disadvantaged" position following the great losses she sustained in World Wars I and II.

Wars Defeating
Hutson noted that World War
I for Britain was really a defeat, financially, and that she was never able to recover from the two wars.
He said that she has failed to

Board Acts to Preserve Four Capitol Rooms

Wants No Changes
In Assembly, Senate
And Supreme Court

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Wisconsin's statehouse has four "monumental" rooms which must be preserved from encroaching modernization, a new state board has decided.

The architectural masterpieces must remain untouched through future capitol renovation projects, and their classic designs preserved, the state capitol and executive residence board has determined.

Placed on the preservation list after a special study were the state senate and assembly chambers, the state supreme court room, and a ceremonial hearing room.

The board, created last fall by the legislature, is comprised of officials, lawmakers and the wife of the governor.

The board, in making its decision, noted that changing uses have come to the half century old building that serves as center for Wisconsin's expanding government. But "every effort should be made to retain the spirit of the design" of the four rooms, the board agreed.

The board praised the "sensitive handling" of modernization needs in the assembly which involved the installation of modern lighting and an electronic voting machine. Similar care should be taken in making all such future changes, it was urged.

Immediate need for renovation exists in the parlors attached to the two legislative halls, however, the board said. Replaced should be furniture which is in "deplorable" condition, worn carpeting and drapes, the professionals on the group agreed.

The board made no comment on some proposals which would move the state supreme court out of its chambers into a new, special state legal building in downtown Madison. The court chambers then would be converted for legislative use and office space.

The board also voted to back administrators, plans to convert a long unused restaurant space under the capitol rotunda into an exhibit room for state government agencies and private trade associations for tourist displays.

exists at city hall, and have also listed industrial development as one of the key issues in the low tone campaign.

Buckley has pointed with pride to his "progress without frills" administration, and cites the city's industrial expansion has flourished during the past two years, including considerable building to be done at the old county airport property which was purchased by the city.

Mitchell says he had a good performance record while in office and wants the chance to pick up from where he left off.

Former Editors
Pointer has put together a hard-working campaign group which includes the services of two former Post-Crescent city editors now employed in private industry.

Wachtendonk claims mismanagement from the mayor's office down into some departments and says his candidacy represents a fresh approach to city problems.

No matter who wins the mayor's race this spring, he will be faced with having to work with an experienced city council. In recent years, this has been the case with both Mitchell and Buckley and the April election will not change things any.

Three Aldermen
At least three new aldermen will be elected to the council next month, and possibly more if some of the incumbents unopposed Tuesday are beaten in April.

In the 7th Ward where Ald. Mark Catlin is stepping down from the council to run for judge, the primary field consists of Robin Long, 1708 S. Perkins St.; George E. Reynolds, 2018 Hickory Ct.; and Fred A. Kingsley, 1123 S. Mason St.

The four-way contest in the 14th Ward involves Harold H. Douglas, 1030 E. Byrd St.; Thomas A. Mulvihill, 1131 E. Byrd St.; Austin N. Tucker, 936 E. Glendale Ave.; and Dorothy Draheim, 1701 N. McDonald St. In the 20th Ward incumbent Ald. Norman E. Beyer, 1722 W. Spring St., is opposed by Ralph Schwartz, 902½ W. Winnebago St.; and Charles W. Roeck, 1003 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Both Unopposed
City Clerk Eldon Broehm and Treasurer Ray Feuerstein have no opposition whatsoever in seeking re-election, also to their first four-year terms.

Assessor John Pierre will have competition in the April general election as will Charles Buchanan, board of education president, and several aldermen and some supervisors.

Veteran city hall observers say this year's mayoral campaign has been one of the quietest in years.

However, each of the four candidates is confident of victory with 24 hours to go before they know the outcome.

Reflect Apathy?

An unusual situation developed here this year, which may reflect apathy. It is estimated that 40 of the regular 103 election workers, representing Republican and Democratic Parties, declined election day assignments.

Most of them informed the city clerk's office they were "too busy with other things". As a result it was necessary to recruit additional help to fill the vacancies.

City polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Father Staudenmaier said he was only answerable to the bishop of the diocese in the matter of administrative matters within the parish — not the parishioners. He made his statement in reply to a question from Hoolihan as to whether Sacred Heart was directly involved in the project.

"The Appleton Priests Association met some time ago and felt there was laxity in providing housing for the elderly in this area," Father Staudenmaier said, "I then decided on my own to promote the project if enough people showed interest." He said about 40 have.

Dad Jailed for Keeping Boy From School

Pleads Guilty of Contributing to Son's Delinquency

Theodore Nabbefeld, 42, 1031 W. Parkway Blvd., was sentenced to 30 days in jail this morning after he pleaded guilty of contributing to the delinquency of his 15-year-old son.

Nabbefeld, who was charged on a complaint made by a caseworker for the Outagamie County Department of Social Services, reportedly took his son from home on Feb. 25. Authorities said the boy stayed with his father for several days, and did not attend school last week. The boy reportedly was back in school today.

Nabbefeld, who appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2, said that his wife ordered he and the boy out of the house after an argument. She would not let them back in, the court was told.

Judge Gustave J. Keller, noting that Nabbefeld had been convicted on disorderly conduct charges in recent months, told him, "In your own interest and in the interest of your family, I should keep you here for a while. If you go back home, you'll just get into a fight with your wife and you'll be back in here for something worse."

Growth of Air Travel Brings New Problems

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you have ever had to use the air shuttle service between Boston, New York and Washington on a Friday or Sunday afternoon you know the pandemonium: departure delays stretching for as long as an hour or more, mobbed waiting rooms, dozens of planes lined up waiting for clearance to take off or land.

If you are a seasoned air traveler in the New England area you surely are well aware of the high frequency of flight cancellations, endless delays, in the air and on the ground, and you probably have missed important appointments and flight connections because of weather and other problems. Or if you are a user of helicopter service from, say, downtown New York City or San Francisco to the airports of those cities, you have a list of the many flights you have missed because bad weather prevented the helicopter from flying.

As an air traveler, you also may remember nightmare times when your luggage went to one coast while you went to another, when you spent more time going to and from the airports than in the air. You probably can exchange horror stories with any of us about jammed parking lots, reservation wrangles — and the ultimate frustration of arriving at an airport with ticket in hand only to be told that there is either no record of your reservation or that the plane on which you thought you held space is full.

Possible Chaos

This is just a partial list of the varied agonies facing today's air traveler. Many, many Americans, in fact, are now finding that it is easier and quicker to drive even 100 or 200 miles, than to fly. And within the next few years, when the giant new "air buses" and "jumbo jets" will be unloading up to 500 or more passengers each, total chaos could overtake our strained airports, access roads, reservations and baggage handling facilities.

But some steps are being taken to forestall the chaos: Stiff new penalties against airlines guilty of overbooking flights are being considered. The airlines simultaneously are beginning to crack down (via extra charges) on passengers who fail to cancel reservations they don't use ("no shows").

New System

handling system is being developed by the major airlines. When you arrive at the airport, you deposit your suitcase or suitcases in a small cart stationed at various convenient points. The suitcases are then automatically delivered, over a railway-like network, to your destination, you simply insert a stub in a machine which "finds" your cart and delivers your baggage at some point you choose in as little as three minutes.

All of the top domestic U.S. airlines are developing a new electronic reservations system for general use. The system is to be tied in with hotels, ground transportation facilities, car rentals and travel agencies as well. Possibly, the system could allow you to buy your ticket from a vending machine and check into your flight just by putting your ticket into an electronic device as you board the plane. The new system also would be able to tell you the most advantageous special air fare applicable to you.

While these new developments should help relieve the airport nightmare, and help cut the zooming costs of delays, missed appointments and long hours of waiting, none of them will really get at the heart of the problem unless we can find better, quicker, cheaper ways to get to and from the airports. That's tomorrow's column. (All Rights Reserved)

Faculty Recital on 20th Century Music

Faculty to Perform at Harper Thursday

A program of 20th century music for violin, piano and clarinet is planned by Lawrence Conservatory faculty members Lucy Baicher Heiberg, James Ming and Dan C. Sparks for their recital at 8 p.m. Thursday in Harper Hall.

Ming

Included will be two works of Ernest Bloch, "Nigun" (Improvisation), from "Baal Shem," and Sonata No. 1 for Violin and Piano; and a Suite for Violin, Clarinet and Piano, by Darius Milhaud.

Mrs. Heiberg Sparks

Mrs. Heiberg, a lecturer in music, is the violinist. Ming, who holds the T. A. Chapman professorship in music, is the pianist. Sparks, an assistant professor of music, plays the clarinet.

Bloch's "Nigun" is described by Ming as "a sort of wordless hymn, an ecstatic melody of the kind frequently composed by the Chassidic Saddikin (saints or holy men) as a means of attaining the highest (spiritual) transport."

"Expression of Soul"

The highly original Jewish composer is known for his moving portrayals of the historic Jewish spirit. His Sonata No. 1 is, according to Ming, "an expression of the Jewish soul — the complex, glowing and agitated soul vibrating throughout the Bible; the freshness and naivete of the Patriarchs, the Jew's savage love of justice, the despair of Ecclesiastes, the sorrow and immensity of the Book of Job, and the sensuality of the Song of Songs."

The sonata is regarded as one of the more brilliant works for violin and piano of this century. Milhaud's Suite, composed in 1937, consists of four movements written in the composer's characteristic light and graciously whimsical style. Its form and style are borrowed from the Baroque suite, folk music sources and contemporary harmonic structures.

McGuire at Loss for Words After Defeat

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP)—Coach Al McGuire, reacting to Marquette's worst performance of the basketball season, has called off nightly bedchecks for his NCAA - tournament - bound Warriors. "Either they want it themselves or forget it," said McGuire after the eighth - ranked Warriors bungled away the regular season finale to Western Michigan 73-66 Saturday. "They can set their own times," he said. "They can tell me when they want to practice — Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday. It's up to them." Marquette, 21-5, was dismal. "Can you imagine coming down that court 27 times and not taking a shot?" lamented McGuire. "Twenty-seven times. I didn't even say anything to them. I didn't know what to say." George Thompson scored 17 points with none of them coming in the final 10 minutes. Brad Luchini fouled out with 10 minutes to go and Marquette trailing by two points. The Broncos immediately proceeded to outscore Marquette 22-6 to wrap up the victory. Luchini, the team's top shooter from outside the circle, took only two outside shots. Both missed. Sure-passing Jim Burke was charged with 10 turnovers. The game provided one consolation: Brian Brunkhorst played for 30 minutes without reinjuring his ailing toe and scored 11 points. Marquette must regain its form by Saturday when they begin tournament play with a match at Kent, Ohio, against Bowling Green (18-6). Saturday's game was regionally televised and Bowling Green players presumably were in the viewing audience. "That's one thing," McGuire said. "There's no way Bowling Green can be ready for us after seeing this today. They have to be put to sleep after today."

Frazier, Griffith Favorites in Tonight's 'Garden' Twin Bill

Expect 16,000 Fans for Two Bouts; Gross Receipts Record Possible

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier, Emile Griffith and the Madison Square Garden box office remained the favorites today in a championship boxing doubleheader that could set financial records. A crowd of 16,000 was expected to see Frazier, an Olympic champion four years ago, battle Buster Mathis for a share of the heavyweight championship after Griffith puts his middleweight crown on the line against Italy's Nino Benvenuti. Frazier was a 2-1 favorite over Mathis and Griffith ruled as an 8-5 choice over Benvenuti. The Garden has guaranteed the four fighters $505,000 and with tickets scaled from $10 to $100, a sellout would gross about $750,000. The gross receipts record for an indoor fight is $511,000 for the third Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight bout in Miami Beach's Convention Hall March 13, 1961. Frazier and Mathis, oldtime foes, battle for the New York and Massachusetts versions of the heavyweight crown. They've fought twice before, both times in amateur bouts, with Mathis winning both. Mathis broke his hand in the second bout and Frazier replaced him in the 1964 Olympics. The Philadelphia slugger went on to win the Olympic heavyweight crown. Both Mathis and Frazier are undefeated as pros. Frazier has 17 knockouts and 19 straight victories while Mathis, the big boy from Grand Rapids, Mich., is 23-0 with 17 knockouts. Frazier is favored because he has fought tougher opponents including George Chuvalo of Canada, Eddie Machen, Doug Jones and Billy Daniels. "I'm going to take out that big boy," he says of Mathis, "maybe in five or six." Mathis, once a blubbery 320 pounds but now a comparatively svelte 242, sounded just as confident. "He makes a lot of mistakes," Mathis said. "I'm going to take advantage of them. I'm ready to go 15 but maybe I won't have to. He's wide open." The Griffith-Benvenuti scrap is the third meeting between these two. Benvenuti took the middleweight crown from Emile the first time and then Griffith reclaimed it at Shea Stadium last September. "I fight better as a challenger," says Nino, who takes a 73-2 record and 30 knockouts into his battle with Griffith. He complained that a rib injury had hurt him against Griffith last time. Griffith, the veteran from New York, says simply, "I've got the title back and I intend to keep it." He takes 54-8 record into tonight's fight. Each bout is scheduled for 15 rounds with scoring by rounds. The Garden, which is paying Frazier and Griffith $175,000 each, Benvenuti $80,000 and Mathis $75,000, announced last week that a total of almost 12,000 seats from $10 to $50 were sold out. Also gone was a good chunk of the 7,000 seats priced at $75 and $100. Harry Markson, director of boxing for the Garden, estimated a gross of between $600,000 and $700,000. In addition to the live gate, there will be income from national closed circuit television, ancillary rights, and the telecast to Italy, Canada, Mexico and Puerto Rico. Students will be able to purchase tickets for $1 good for both nights of the tourney in a reserved section. Adult tickets for both games in the reserved Kimberly area will be $2.75. Following the advance sale of tickets at Kimberly, separate night tickets will be available at the Brown County Veterans Memorial Arena box office Thursday and Friday. Prices will be 75 cents per game for students and $1.75 for adults. Kimberly will face Pulaski in its first tournament game Friday night. By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP) — The steam- ing Big Ten basketball title race could end tonight with Iowa taking all the marbles. This could come about if the Hawkeyes (9-3) win at Minnesota (4-9) and Ohio State (9-4) loses its finale at Illinois (6-6). Iowa is assured of at least a share of the crown if both it and the Buckeyes win. The Hawkeyes then could take it outright with a finishing Saturday night victory at home over Michigan (5-8). The Buckeyes' only hope for sole possession and the NCAA tourney berth is to defeat Illinois, the Big Ten's best defense club, and then have Iowa lose its last two games. The finishing touches to the campaign appears to be strictly between Iowa and OSU. Purdue and Wisconsin, the closest pursuers, are all but out of it with 7-5 marks. However, the way things have been going anything could happen. It's possible for Iowa, Ohio State, Purdue and Wisconsin all to wind up with 9-5. In case of a championship tie, there would be a playoff for NCAA tournament entrance. Badgers Close at NU Purdue is at Michigan State (5-7) Tuesday while Wisconsin is at Indiana (3-9). In Saturday's other games, Purdue is at Indiana, Wisconsin at Northwestern (7-6) and Illinois at MSU. Iowa downed Illinois 61-56 Saturday. The Illini drew close time after time in the last half but sophomore Chad Calabria's two free throws in the last 44 seconds put the Hawkeyes out of reach. Dave Scholz topped the Illini with 21 points and Sam Williams headed Iowa with 18. Ohio State remained in second place with a 107-93 blasting of Indiana as Bill Hosket and Steve Howell each scored 25 points and Dave Sorenson added 23. Minnesota, becoming more and more the spoiler behind Tom Kondla's recovered scoring eye, defeated Michigan State 75-68. Kondla banged in 29 points.

Bishops Deal Racine Team 50-43 Loss

By BILL SCHULZ MILWAUKEE (AP)—Guards Bill Blattnig and Steve Prekop got the credit after Milwaukee Messmer won its second Wisconsin Catholic high school basketball tournament in three years, stopping a defense-minded Racine St. Catherine squad 50-43 Sunday. De Pere Abbot Pennings need two overtimes, but defeated La Crosse Aquinas 75-71 for third place in the 39th annual tourney. Appleton Xavier stopped Milwaukee Don Bosco 65-59 for consolation honors. When you get such a job as we got from Blattnig today, you just can't say enough," said a jubilant Coach Bob Neja after the Bishops' victory. Blattnig took scoring honors with 16 points. On a Hunch He was a reserve most of the season, but Neja started him in the first game on a hunch, and he stayed in. "That time, they jammed us up the middle, and they did it again today," Neja said, remembering the Angels' 48-47 victory over his squad in regular season play. "So we had to go to the outside." The Bishops took a quick 6-1 lead on a pair of long jump shots by Prekop and a tip-in by Henry Davis. The Angels couldn't get any closer than three points in the first half, which ended with Messmer leading 25-19. Ted Bodner's outside jump shots led an improved Angels' shooting attack after intermission. The teams battled to a 39-39 tie late in the fourth period. "When that happened, I was sure we could still win," said Angels' Coach John McGuire. But Blattnig hit a jumper, the Bishops added six points more in a hurry, and it was all over. McGuire agreed about the effectiveness of Messmer's guards. "They're the ones that beat us," he said. The Bishops dominated both Turn to Page 12, Col. 3

Manitowoc Only Undeclared Team Remaining in State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The king and the heir apparent have both been shipped into exile after a Saturday night of pocket revolutions in the annual Wisconsin public high school basketball pageant. The emerging strong man as the scholastic spectacular reached the sectional stage was second-ranked Manitowoc, the unbeaten power of the Fox River Valley Conference, and the only unbeaten team left in Wisconsin. Both top - ranked Milwaukee North and defending champion Milwaukee Lincoln will have to wait until next year. North, 20 - 1, whipped fifth-ranked Shorewood Friday night, then forgot all about unranked Milwaukee King in a regional final Saturday night. King, a team that lost to North by one point in overtime in Milwaukee City Conference play, jabbed the Blue Devils, 97-74. Lincoln, which was building up hopes for a third Wisconsin title in three seasons after stopping Milwaukee Tech Friday night, was brought down to earth by West Allis Central, 15-6, 87-85 in a wildly confusing finish Saturday. With 50 seconds left, the Comets led 83-80 and had the ball. But under the pressure of the moment, a Lincoln player misinterpreted a gesture by Coach Jim Smallins as a signal for a time out. Lincoln had already used up its full allotment. When a sixth time out was asked for and granted, an automatic technical foul was charged to Lincoln. Kevin Kornuth made the free throw and Central kept possession of the ball, needing only a basket to tie the game. Mike Koloff got it and the score was 83-81. Lincoln came back once more to pull ahead 85-83 but Kornuth countered with a Central field goal with about 15 seconds left. Lincoln moved for the would-be clincher but lost the ball with eight seconds remaining. Kornuth's brother, Randy, who already had 30 points, picked up two more with a shot at the buzzer and the Comets were dethroned. Manitowoc, 21-0, continued to demonstrate its season-long consistency as it moved into a sectional semifinal opposite Beaver Dam with a 53-43 win over Mishicot. Consolation Crown Goes To Hawks

BY RON WITT Post-Crescent Staff Writer MILWAUKEE — Determination...perseverance...or guts. Call it what you like, but Appleton Xavier had it when it counted Sunday and walked off the Milwaukee Arena floor with a second consecutive WCIAA consolation championship. Tiring and down by a point, at 51-50, with 5:07 left in the final quarter, the Hawks broke out of a cold spell with 10 straight points and went on to register a 65-59 victory over Milwaukee Don Bosco to capture the fifth place crown in the 39th annual State Catholic Basketball Tournament. It was the third such consolation title won by a Xavier team since the school's first appearance in 1926. The triumph gave Gene (Torchy's) Clark's cagers a season record of 23-2, coincidentally the same mark as the Hawks achieved last year in gaining the same honor. Senior Pat Fitzgerald and junior Mike Clark, both picked to the all-tournament team, again paced the Hawks with 19 and 17 points, respectively, and Bob Fullarton chipped in with 12. Gary Grzesk and Mark Scholz had 17 markers for the losers. 69-Point Total Fitzgerald's performance made him the individual scoring king of the tournament, with 69 points. Grzesk, also among the all-tourney selections, was runner-up with 56. The decisive 10-point assault came not as a "second wind" for the Hawks but as a "third wind." Xavier had previously streaked to an 18-5 lead in the first quarter, only to have the Dons come hustling back within four points, at 28-24, in the second stanza. It was then that the Hawks got that "second wind" and mounted their advantage back up to 12, at 42-30, by halftime. The 12-point spread was maintained when Clark canned a neat dippy-doodle shot driving in Turn to Page 10, Col. 4

Wirkola Cops Jumping Title At Eau Claire

EAU CLAIRE (AP) — Bjorn Wirkola of Norway won the Eau Claire Ski Club's 25th annual ski jumping tournament Sunday and broke a record at Hendrickson Hill, which the club hopes to replace next season with a new facility.

Xavier Wins Consolation Final, 56-59

at the start of the third period to make it 44-32.

But now it was Don Bosco's turn to catch up again. Grzesek, a 6-1 senior guard, teamed with 5-10 junior running-mate, Gary Sager, to bring the Dons up to a 46-43 deficit by the close of the quarter.

Grzesek hit three bombs from far out and added two free throws in the stretch, while Sager (brother of head coach Tom Sager) contributed a bucket and a gift shot. With the count 46-43, Carey Sullivan flipped a pass to Clark underneath and the Hawk playmaker notched a reverse layup with one second left to push Xavier up, 48-43.

The scoring play was the third time in the contest that Xavier had maneuvered successfully for a last shot within a minute or minute and 30 seconds remaining in a period.

Sinks 2 From Line

The clock had shown no time left in the first quarter, when Clark stepped to an empty free throw line to put two charity tosses after being fouled at the gun. Fitzgerald went one better at the end of the half, when he drove the baseline for a lay-in, was fouled, and sank a free throw with a scant three seconds remaining.

Xavier, which had shot 44 per cent (16 for 36) in the opening 16 minutes, tailed off to a miserable 15 per cent (2 for 13) in the third quarter, and the Dons were ready to take advantage of the sudden change.

Scholz, the Dons' 6-3 sophomore center, suddenly took over the scoring duties. He connected on a short jumper and Tom Mihm swished one from the corner to slice the lead to 48-47. Fitzgerald stemmed the tide momentarily with a drive, but then Scholz retaliated with a baseline jumper and an old-fashioned sweeping hook to put Don Bosco ahead for the first and only time in the game at 51-50.

But it took only 11 seconds for Xavier to regain the lead. Forward Tom Thomson spotted an opening down the lane to score a lay-in as the clock read 4:56. Scholz then blew a free throw that would have tied it, and after Fitzgerald missed the next Hawk floor attempt, Fullerton rammed home the rebound.

Again the Dons failed to connect, and Clark was fouled by Steve Lazewski. He promptly meshed both ends of a bonus situation and with 3:45 left, it was 56-51.

While the Dons remained in their slump, Fitzgerald popped

Rangers Blank Chicago Canadiens' Lead in NHL Cut to 2 Points

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Montreal Canadiens still are streaking but they've reversed direction.

The Flying Frenchmen, who went through 25 games with just one defeat, suddenly have been grounded, tying once and losing three times in the last four games.

Montreal's two losses over the weekend, 3-2 to Minnesota Saturday and 5-2 to Detroit Sunday, combined with a pair of New York victories, 4-0 over Philadelphia Saturday and 4-0 over Chicago Sunday, have left the first-place Canadiens just three points ahead of New York in the East Division of the National Hockey League.

In other Sunday action, Boston trounced St. Louis 9-3 and Oakland tied Philadelphia 1-1.

Too Much Spirit

Montreal's John Ferguson played with spirit against Detroit Sunday. In fact, too much spirit.

Ferguson's aggressive play cost Montreal a 1-0 lead and its momentum, and also got him 12 stitches in his head. The big left wing was given five two-minute penalties in the first two periods.

Montreal took a 1-0 lead on Jean Beliveau's goal, his 1,000th career point in the NHL, and dominated play until 15:31 of the first period when, with Ferguson in the penalty box, rookie Nick Libett tied it for Detroit with his first NHL goal.

Detroit went in front to stay in the second period on goals by Gary Bergman and Norm Ullman. Ullman also scored in the third period.

Cracked on Head

Ferguson got his stitches in the second period. He took off another corner jump at 3:12, and Fullerton roared down the lane for a lay-up to clinch it (60-51) at the 1:54 mark. The last five Xavier points came on free tosses, as the Dons were forced to foul in trying to get the ball.

Xavier finished with a .389 shooting percentage, on 23 of 59, while Don Bosco took 10 more shots but made one less basket (22 of 69) for a 31.8 per cent mark. The Hawks netted 19 of 26 gift throws to 15 of 22 for the Dons. The losers had a 43-41 edge on the boards.

DON BOSCO (19-13-16-39) Sager 2 5; Grzesek 7 3 4; Mihm 3 0 3; Lazewski 4 0 5; Scholz 6 5 1; Radomski 0 2 1. Totals 22 15 19.

Everyone was offensive-minded for Boston, which tightened its hold on fourth place in the East Division. Even goalie Gerry Cheevers got an assist for the Bruins, who are bidding for their first playoff spot in nine years.

Cheevers assisted on John McKenzie's goal. Three of Bruins' nine tallies, which gave them a club season record of 224, came off the stick of Eddie Shack.

Philadelphia's West Division-leading Flyers got a first-period goal by Don Blackburn, but Oakland produced the tie when Larry Cahan scored in the second period. Both goals came on power plays.

The nationally televised game was played in New York because of wind damage to the roof of the new Spectrum in Philadelphia.

Indiana Cops 8th Straight Swim Crown

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Charlie Hickcox, a world record holder in the backstroke, swept three events as a powerful Indiana squad sped to its eighth straight Big Ten swimming title Saturday night.

The Hoosiers, ranked tops in the nation by the magazine Swimming World, racked up 490 points, their biggest total in the past four years that 18 events have been run.

Perennial bridesmaid Michigan was second, with 339 points, for the eighth straight year.

After winning the 200-yard backstroke, Hickcox then led off the Indiana team that set a Big Ten record in the 400-yard medley relay, last event of the meet.

The Hoosier team clipped the course in three minutes, 31.54 seconds, bettering the old record by a slim one-hundredth of a second. The previous mark was set in 1965 by another Indiana team.

Final 6 Berths Must Still be Determined for NCAA Cage Meet

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

There'll be big doings in Ames, Iowa, tonight as the college basketball season starts its last week of the regular season.

Iowa State, with a chance for its first Big Eight Conference title in 23 years, entertains first-place Kansas State. Iowa State is tied for second with Kansas, one game behind, but followers of the Cyclones are confident they will tie for the lead tonight, then win the title outright by beating Kansas on Saturday.

The Iowa Hawkeyes, close to their first Big Ten Conference championship in 12 years, play at Minnesota and the unbeaten, top-ranked Houston Cougars are at West Texas in an effort to complete a 28-0 regular season.

Ohio State, one game back of Iowa, plays at Illinois and Kansas is at Oklahoma in other important games tonight.

Will Fill Gaps

The results of the Big Eight and Big Ten scrambles will fill two of the remaining six spots in the NCAA postseason tournament for the national championship which opens on Saturday with seven first-round games.

Two other NCAA berths will be decided Tuesday night. Columbia and Princeton play off for the Ivy League crown on St. John's neutral court in New York. Murray and East Tennessee meet in a similar playoff for the Ohio Valley Conference crown on Eastern Kentucky's neutral court in Richmond, Ky.

Tennessee Tech 85-82.

The Atlantic Coast Conference championship tourney, opening at Charlotte with four games Thursday, and the winner of the West Coast Athletic Conference in which Santa Clara leads Los Angeles Loyola by one game, will determine the last two NCAA berths.

UCLA, the defending national champ, Davidson, LaSalle, Texas Christian and Weber State qualified for the NCAA over the weekend.

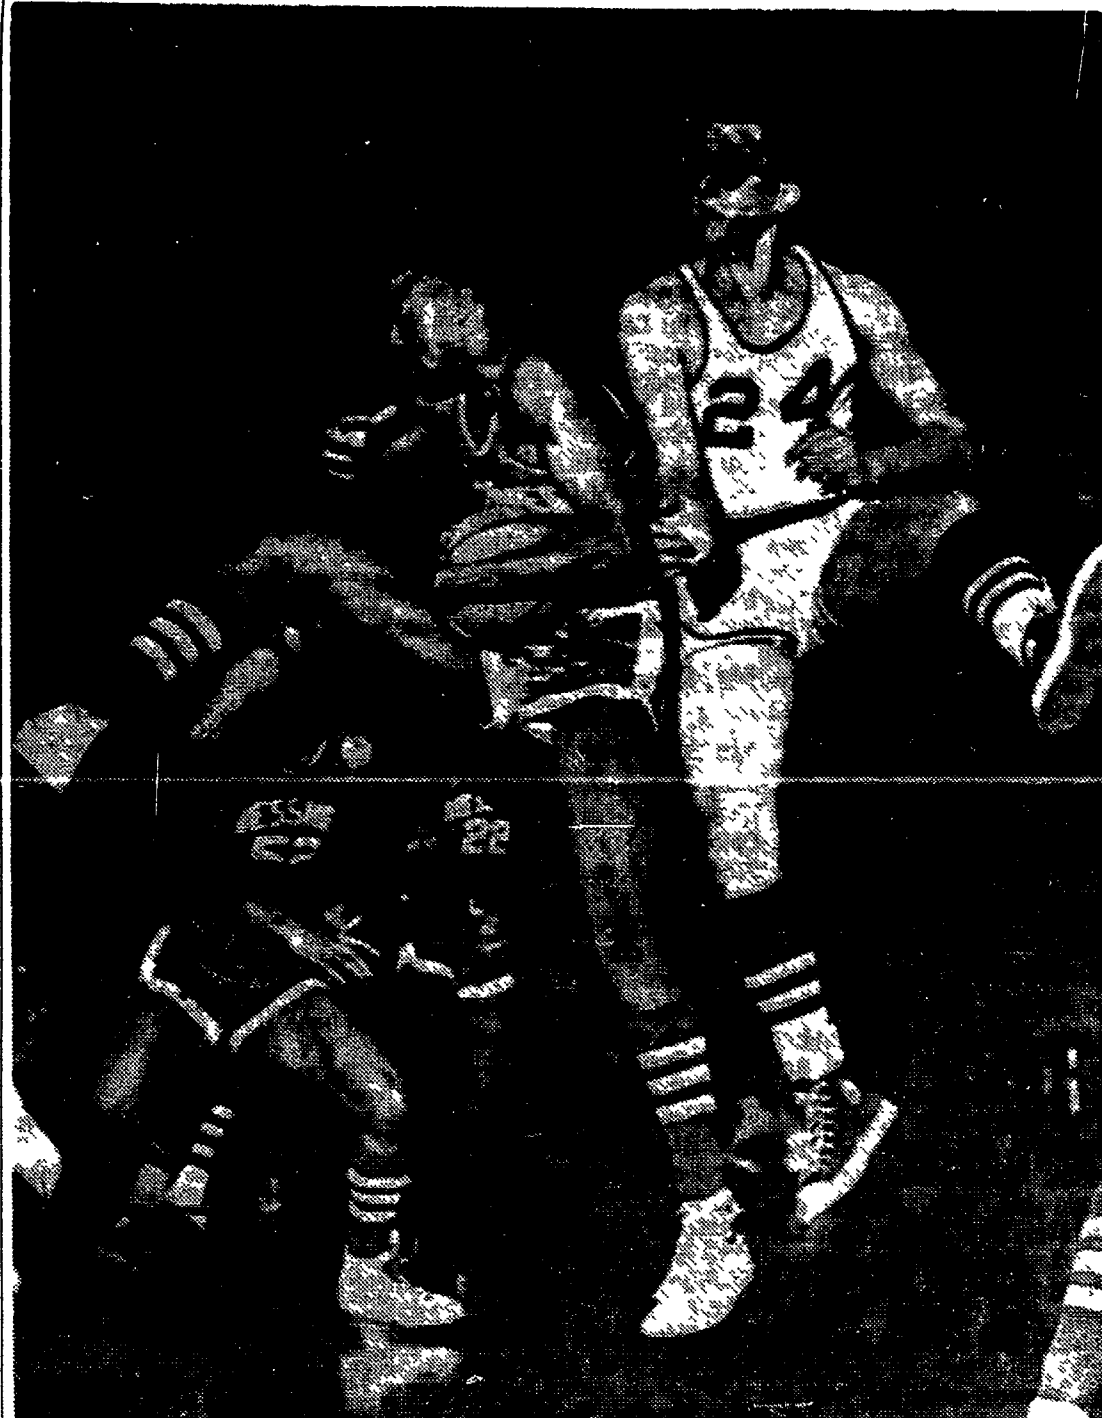

They joined Houston, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, Florida State, Marquette, Chicago Loyola, New Mexico State, Boston College, Louisville, Bowling Green, Kentucky and New Mexico in the 23-team field.

UCLA qualified by routing California 115-71 for the Pacific-8 title. Davidson beat West Virginia 87-70 in the final of the Southern Conference championship tourney, and LaSalle romped over Temple 87-69 in the final of the Middle Atlantic Conference playoffs.

TCU took the Southwest Conference by beating Baylor 72-65, helped by Arkansas' 74-73 upset over Texas, and Weber State won the Big Sky Conference crown by defeating Montana State 85-80.

Dayton, beaten by UCLA in the final of last year's NCAA tourney, was picked Sunday for the National Invitation Tournament along with Marshall, which reached the semifinals of the NIT last year.

Dayton, 17-9 with a 10-game winning streak, and Marshall, 17-7, join Oklahoma City, Army, Fordham, Notre Dame, Duquesne, Long Island and St. Peter's in the 16-team NIT field. The tourney opens March 14 at the new Madison Square Garden in New York and ends March 23, the same day as the NCAA.

8,400 Skiers Participate in Sport's Longest Race—55 Miles

MORA, Sweden (AP) — A few started with the ambition to win, but most competitors were fully satisfied if they managed to reach the finish in the longest ski race of the world — the Vasaloppet in the central Swedish province of Dalecarlia.

A total 8,400 skiers poured out on the tracks Sunday morning. The last competitor finished the 55-mile race here at midnight.

The winner, 32-year-old Swedish lumber worker Janne Stefansson, covered the marathon course in 4 hours, 39 minutes and 49 seconds.

Most tourist skiers took three times as long and reached the finishing post long after darkness.

Italy sent the biggest continental group to Sweden. It was led by Marcello de Doria, who two years ago lost five toes when training in Sweden.

He became lost and was not found for 22 hours. His feet were badly frozen and doctors had to amputate five toes. Sunday he finished behind 5,000 skiers — but he made it and he is sure to come back.

Top American 100th

Two of the Americans in the race, Mike Gallagher and Edward Williams, finished 100th and 302nd, respectively.

The race dates from the days of King Gustav Vasa, founder of modern Sweden, and the 16th century uprising against the Danes.

The route is over one the King supposedly took when he fled toward Norway after the Dalecarlians at Mora refused to join the rising.

They changed their minds and sent two runners after him who finally overtook him and persuaded him to return.

There was no medical check-up before the race and invalids and even blind skiers participated — the only ones ruled out, it seems were women.

Some statistics of the race: If all the skiers had spread out over the 55 miles they would have had but 15.4 yards in between their skis.

Together they traveled about 20 times around the globe or the distance from the earth to the moon and back.

They sweated off close to 20 tons of fat, which means the starting field had shrunk by a couple of hundred men at the goal.

But they headed, too, at four food and control stations with tons of meat balls and a specially nourishing sweet blueberry soup. There was talk of setting up continental trattorias for foreign guests.

The skiers were divided into three categories, topped by 150 elite skiers, headed by Stefansson, who holds the record of 4:35 hours.

They were followed by about 3,200 skiers who consider themselves serious competitors, and then thousands of tourists, including most foreigners who came along for the fun of it.

Each paid about $15 starting fee and all they got — if they reached the goal before nightfall — was the honor of something to brag about back home.

BOSTON (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers breathed a little easier today en route to a third straight Eastern Division championship in their National Basketball Association rivalry with the Boston Celtics.

In other NBA action Sunday, Cincinnati topped Seattle 138-122, Detroit drubbed Chicago 134-123, Los Angeles took Baltimore 121-114 and St. Louis edged San Diego 106-104.

New York trounced Detroit 133-107, Los Angeles outlasted Seattle 127-121 and San Francisco beat Baltimore 117-109 Saturday.

With Hal Greer hitting for 43 points, the 76ers built a 21-point lead midway through the fourth period and then checked a desperation rally by the Celtics.

The Celtics were up for the game, but their hopes of handing Philadelphia a fourth straight garden loss and taking a 5-2 season advantage over the 76ers were dashed by the outside shooting and penetrating drives of Greer and Wally Jones.

With both teams aiming for a showdown in the Eastern playoff finals, the 76ers proved they can win in Boston, where they managed just four victories in 20 previous regular season visits.

Referees Norm Drucker and Don Murphy called 70 fouls, including three technicals, in the rugged game before a national television audience and a Garden crowd of 14,692, the largest pro basketball turnout in Boston history. The Garden recently added seats, doing away with the familiar 13,909 capacity.

Cincinnati's victory kept the fourth-place Royals 1½ games ahead of Detroit, who replaced Baltimore in fifth place in the Eastern Division.

Connie Dierking's 41 points, a pro-career high, sparked the Royals' victory. Cincinnati led 66-65 at halftime, but Dierking and Adrian Smith spurred them into a 77-70 lead early in the third period and Seattle never caught up. Smith finished with 31 points. Rod Thorn lead Seattle with 22.

Detroit rolled to its victory behind the double-figure scoring of six players. Dave Bing led the parade with 34 points, followed by Eddie Miles, 27, Len Chappell, 22. McCoy McLemore paced Chicago with 23.

Los Angeles overcame a nine-point deficit in the third quarter and moved to their seventh straight victory and 22nd in the last 27 games behind the shooting of Elgin Baylor and Archie Clark.

Baylor poured in 33 points and Clark 25. Earl Monroe scored 24 for Baltimore.

A foul shot and basket by Bill Bridges broke a 102-102 tie and clinched the victory for Western Division-leading St. Louis. Don Ohl scored 27 points for St. Louis and Henry Finkel got 24 for San Diego.

McDowell and His Wife Hurt In Auto Crash

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Cleveland Indians' pitcher Sam McDowell required a total of 10 stitches Sunday after he was involved in a two-car collision.

McDowell's wife, Carole, and their two children, Deborah, 5, and Timmy, 2, were in the auto. Mrs. McDowell had four stitches in the left knee. The children were shaken up.

The family was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where doctors used seven stitches below McDowell's left eye and three on his left temple. He also suffered abrasions of both elbows and both knees.

Indians' team physician Dr. Vic Ippolito said McDowell probably would work out to day and is not expected to be sidelined.

The driver of the other auto was a 26-year-old coed from the University of Arizona. She was not seriously hurt.

vivors of the 17 ranked teams in the starting field of 424 public schools. All are major school powers. The three ranked small school teams still in the running Friday night fell Saturday night.

Fourth - ranked Eau Claire Memorial, 19-1, seeking its ninth trip in 10 seasons to the championship games at Madison, moved into a sectional semifinal berth opposite Ashland with an 81-70 win over Chippewa Falls.

Seventh - ranked Beloit, 18-3, gained the sectional semifinals berth opposite Janesville-Craig by eliminating sixth-ranked small school, Barneveld, 92-57. Ninth-ranked Schofield, 22-1, drew Rhinelander as a sectional semifinal opponent. The Evergreens, hoping to make the Madison games for the first time in school history, nipped a fine Wisconsin Rapids team, 71-70.

Losses to South
Kohler, ranked third among the small schools, fell in the regional finals to Sheboygan South 76-71. Wausau, ranked seventh, lost to Suring 66-58.

La Crosse Central is now the only team from Madison's 1967 games with any chance of returning. Central almost went the way of the other seven but managed to beat North Crawford 51-50.

Appleton West, which finished third in the state meet a year ago, lost Saturday night to Kimberly, 66-55.

All but six of the 32 schools contending for the eight Madison berths have been to the state meet at least once in the past. The exceptions, besides Schofield, are Suring, which jacks twice - beaten Sturgeon Bay Friday night; Pulaski, which meets Kimberly; Milwaukee King; King's semifinal opponent, Brookfield East, 20-1; and Iowa - Grant, which faces Madison East.

Former state champions in the running include Memorial, Rice Lake, South Milwaukee, Beloit, Madison East, La Crosse Central, Beaver Dam, Manitowoc, Neenah, Marion, Rhinelander, and Watertown.

Among the top individual performers Saturday night were Tom Banaszynski of Pulaski, who scored 34 points and hit on 14 of 14 free throws; Terry Bester of Fond du Lac, and Charles Simon of Sheboygan South, 32 each.

Banaszynski is the top scorer in tournament play so far with an average of more than 30 points.

Teams with an average return of 10.2 yards. Then came Dallas 9.7, San Francisco 9.0, Chicago 8.8 and Baltimore 7.7.

boards, hauling down 42 rebounds to 28 for the Angels. Roberto Woolfork added 15 points to the Messmer attack. Paul Matsen was high for St. Catherine with 14, most from the inside, and Bodner wound up with 12.

Layups by Steve Kolb and Ron Coenen in the last seconds of a second overtime—followed by Coenen's basket after the gun—gave Pennings its victory over Aquinas.

Squires Rally
La Crosse came back from a 32-28 halftime deficit to pull ahead, 44-39, late in the third period, but the Squires rallied and the lead changed hands several times before regulation time ended with a 64-64 tie.

The Bluegolds got a pair of free throws and a layup before the Squires got their five straight.

La Crosse was in foul trouble much of the way. Three players fouled out in the fourth quarter and the Bluegolds ended the game with six players sidelined.

Bob Petry took game scoring honors, getting 16 for the losers. Dan Olson led the Pennings attack with 16 and Steve Schuh and John Albers added 15 each.

"We had no bed of roses in this tournament," said Xavier Coach Gene Clark after the Hawks' victory over Don Bosco.

The Hawks had to overcome an ice-cold third period to pull out the victory. They hit on just two field goals in the period as the Dons erased a 42-30 halftime deficit and took a short-lived 51-50 lead early in the final period.

The Hawks recovered their form and went on to win.

"We were tired out there in that third period," Clark said. "They're smaller than we are and can run more. We were running a lot. 'We're proud of our kids."

Guard Pat Fitzgerald led Xavier with 19 points while teammate Mike Clark got 17. Mark Scholz paced the losers with 17.

Messmer qualified for the finals with an early 74-55 victory over 10th-ranked La Crosse Aquinas Saturday night.

Henry Davis scored 18 points and Roberto Woolfork added 17 for the Bishops even though they both sat out almost a full period with foul trouble.

Joe Hayes got 12 points and Mike Hass and Bob Petry each added 10 for Aquinas.

St. Catherine won its finals berth with a 42-38 victory over De Pere Pennings in a defensive battle.

Neither team was able to generate much offensive action as the lanes to the inside were blocked at both ends of the court. No one drove in for a layup in the first half.

Oil Washes Ashore on Puerto Rico

Freighter Breaks Up at Harbor; Vacation Beaches Threatened

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — An oil slick four miles long and a mile wide threatened to drive thousands of vacationing sun worshipers from Puerto Rico's luxury beaches today after a Liberian tanker broke up at the mouth of San Juan harbor.

Some of the Ocean Eagle's 6 million gallons of oil washed up on the white sand in front of the Caribe Hilton Hotel Sunday night, and the slick drifted toward the other luxury hotels along the beach in the plush Condado area.

It was the second such mishap to a Liberian-flag tanker within a year. Last March 18, the

Senate Vote On Housing May be Last

Mansfield Would Put Bill Aside if Cloture Again Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said if the Senate refuses today to cut off debate on its civil rights bill, only something unusual would keep him from moving to put the bill aside.

The vote set for today is to invoke cloture, or end debate, on the administration's civil rights bill with its controversial open-housing provision.

Mansfield told newsmen his decision would not rest on how close the bill's supporters come to getting the necessary two-thirds majority to end the debate that now is in its 7th week. "On this issue, either you win or lose," he said.

The compromise bill combines open housing with federal protection against the use of violence to interfere with the exercise of civil rights.

Would be Futile

Mansfield indicated that, if cloture failed for a fourth time, he felt it would be futile to continue the debate "as far as this particular combination is concerned."

But he said that "if something unusual comes up, I'd give it consideration." However, he said he knows of no further compromise moves.

A weekend report by the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, calling for passage of legislation banning discrimination in the sale or rental of any U.S. housing, lent added significance to the Senate action.

Despite Mansfield's warning he might move to put the legislation aside if cloture once more is rejected, backers of the civil rights measure expressed hope it might be kept alive.

'Critical Bill'

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager of the bill, said: "If we continue to pick up strength, I'd hope the Senate would not be asked to put aside a bill of such critical importance."

The Senate voted 59 to 35 Friday for cutting off the debate, leaving the bill's supporters 4 votes short of the margin necessary to force action.

A first cloture vote failed by 7 votes and a second by 6.

But it was Friday's vote that was a jolting upset. It came after Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen dropped his opposition and offered the compromise bill worked out with a bipartisan civil rights bloc.

Dirksen's sponsorship of the compromise, introduced last Wednesday, failed to pick up as many Republican votes for cloture as he and others had expected.

97 Per Cent

The original open-housing proposal, offered by Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., would have banned discrimination in the sale or rental of an estimated 97 per cent of the nation's housing.

The compromise cut back the coverage to about 70 per cent of the housing units, but opponents contend any open-housing legislation is an unconstitutional invasion of private property rights.

Mansfield indicated he feels the Senate, embroiled in the civil rights fight since mid-January, has spent about as much time as it can on one bill.

5 Injured in All-Day Fire In Neenah

NEENAH — Five persons, including three firemen, were injured early Sunday morning in a stubborn fire which destroyed Jerry's Lakeside Bar and Hotel on the northwest side of the city.

The blaze, which ran through the three-story brick structure and the adjoining two-story frame building in a matter of minutes shortly before 2 a.m., took firemen from Neenah and Menasha almost 16 hours to snuff out completely.

Four tenants, found huddled on the roof in 13 degree temperatures, were rescued by firemen. Two others were pulled through windows on the second floor.

Found on Stairway

One man, Andrew Schlander, 60, was discovered lying semiconscious on the stairway. He is listed in satisfactory condition at Theda Clark Hospital with cuts on his head and a possible back injury.

Another tenant, Ernest Wittkopf, 42, was released after treatment for minor injuries at the hospital.

Firemen Joseph Birling, Richard Olson and Ronald Mertz also were treated at the hospital.

Olson, 29, 616 Roosevelt St., suffered lacerations about his left eye when his safety glasses broke. He also sustained burns on his neck, both ears and right wrist.

Birling, 32, 1243 Maple St., is being treated for smoke inhalation and frost-bitten ears. Mertz, 44, 806 Jean St., was released from the hospital after treatment for minor injuries.

By the time firemen arrived at the scene, smoke was billowing from the windows. After rescuing the tenants from the front windows and the roof of the bar, the firemen poured thousands of gallons on the smoldering structures.

Around 4 a.m., the roof at the rear of the bar section caved in. Flames leaped 30 to 40 feet into the air. Six hours later the rear wall of the frame building collapsed.

Captured Sailors 'Plead' for Release

Open Letter Reportedly Sent To Johnson Admitting Spying

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea said today the crew of the USS Pueblo had signed an open letter calling on President Johnson to "frankly admit" they were spying in North Korean territorial waters "and sincerely apologize."

The Korean Central News Agency said the letter was signed by Capt. Lloyd M. Bucher, the skipper of the U.S. Navy intelligence-gathering ship, and the 81 surviving members of his crew. One other crewman was reported killed when North Korean navy boats captured the Pueblo off the east coast of North Korea on Jan. 23.

The North Koreans claimed the Pueblo was in their territorial waters. The United States said the ship was in international waters.

The Communist agency said the ship's crew wrote the President "to request your assistance in our repatriation."

It said the letter listed five points at which the Pueblo trespassing in North Korean waters "in order to obtain electronic and visual intelligence." They were 9.8 miles from Kal Tan, north of Chongjin; 11.2 miles from Orang Dan, 10.75 miles and 11.3 miles from Nan Do, east of Songjin; 8.2 miles from Ansong Kap, in the Mayang Do area, and 7.6 miles from Yo Do, in the Wonson area.

The letter, according to the North Koreans, said: "We do not mean to imply that your concern for us is or has been negligent."

"On the contrary, our earnest desire is that you, our commander in chief, have the complete facts as we and the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea know them."

"We were captured while committing hostile acts 7.6 miles from Yo Do in the vicinity of Wonsan in the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea on 23 January, 1968."

"Immediately following the capture we attempted to deny the real purpose of our operation and intrusion into the territorial waters, hoping to safeguard national security and our national honor. However, we could not long deny the facts since the Korean People's Army had in their possession our documents which revealed the real purpose of our operation and the ship's position logs and charts which proved our intrusions into the territorial waters of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

Birth Control Program, Slash in Infant Deaths Included in Measure

program to Congress today that would more than double federal outlays for birth control programs, boost efforts to slash infant deaths and provide new incentives for the training of more doctors.

In a special message, Johnson outlined "five major new goals" — to curb infant mortality, provide more health personnel, combat soaring medical costs, lower the accidental death rate, and seek volunteer efforts by doctors, hospitals and others to provide better health for all Americans.

The $15.6 billion price tag for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would boost the current annual outlay $8 billion.

Increase Funds

Johnson asked Congress to increase funds for birth control activities to $61 million from $25 million. He said this would make family planning information and birth control devices or drugs available to an additional 3 million women "if they so desire."

He also announced plans to create a center for population studies and human reproduction, primarily to direct family planning research, and asked for an initial appropriation of $12 million to support it.

The chief executive said infant mortality is "inexorably high" although it has dropped from 25.2 deaths per 1,000 children under the age of one in 1963, to 22.1 last year.

Ranks 15th

Noting that the United States ranks only 15th in infant mortality, Johnson said the nation "should lead the world in saving its young."

He asked Congress to provide an additional $58 million next year for maternal and child health care programs. He said the goal should be to eliminate all problems in this area by 1973.

He also asked for another $215 million or a total of $1.4 billion for child health services.

Proposing a new Health Manpower Act, Johnson said this measure would consolidate and continue programs now being carried out under laws that expire in June, 1969.

One major feature of the administration bill would give bigger subsidies to medical schools, increasing their enrollment, and provide federal grants to cover all costs of major changes—including the building of dormitories—needed to hike enrollments.

Drug Costs

Johnson also proposed some ideas aimed at lowering the amount that American families now spend on drugs. He asked Congress to authorize the government to establish within a relative narrow range the "reasonable cost" of drugs the government pays for.

He also asked for another $215 million or a total of $1.4 billion for child health services.

Proposing a new Health Manpower Act, Johnson said this measure would consolidate and continue programs now being carried out under laws that expire in June, 1969.

One major feature of the administration bill would give bigger subsidies to medical schools, increasing their enrollment, and provide federal grants to cover all costs of major changes—including the building of dormitories—needed to hike enrollments.

Johnson also proposed some ideas aimed at lowering the amount that American families now spend on drugs. He asked Congress to authorize the government to establish within a relative narrow range the "reasonable cost" of drugs the government pays for.

He also asked for another $215 million or a total of $1.4 billion for child health services.

Run by American Woman

Viet Cong Seize Hospital

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops seized a hospital run by an American woman doctor today, blew up the operating and x-ray rooms and fired indiscriminately into some of the wards. U.S. military spokesmen reported.

U.S. officers at Kontum said the doctor, Patricia Smith, of Seattle, Wash., two American nurses, a Danish nurse and a German nurse who work at the hospital were safe in a secure area in the city.

The hospital is on the outskirts of Kontum, a central highlands city 275 miles north of Saigon.

The officers said, however, that a second German nurse, a Montagnard nurse and a Montagnard worker were abducted.

According to reports received by the American officers, mortar flashes were observed in the vicinity of the hospital about 1:15 a.m.

"The Viet Cong were using that area to fire mortars into the Kontum airstrip," one officer said. "None hit the airstrip, but they fell in the general vicinity."

"Later on, the Viet Cong entered the hospital and asked the patients where the Americans were living. The patients told them the Americans were living in the city at night."

Details were still sketchy. It was not immediately clear whether the Americans were in the city at the time or whether the Montagnard patients told the Viet Cong that to protect the staff. It is possible that Dr. Smith and the others were hiding somewhere on the hospital grounds.

One patient was killed and four were wounded in the attack, the American officer said. He reported the wards filled with patients, two, three or more to a bed. Among them were infants just a few weeks old. Families caring for hospitalized relatives usually sleep on the floor next to the beds.

Only Sunday, U.S. military officials in Kontum and Miss Smith had told a reporter that the Viet Cong would never attack the hospital because they knew the local Montagnard tribesmen depended on it.

Soviet Rocket Soars Moonward

MOSCOW (AP) — A new Soviet rocket hurtled through space today amid speculation that it might be trying to make the first round trip orbiting the moon before it returns to the earth.

The Soviet government said the probing rocket was on a course to "outlying regions of near-earth space." The phrase has been used in past announcements to mean the region of the moon.

The new rocket was launched Saturday and, if it is heading for the moon, should arrive there Tuesday or Wednesday. The trip usually takes 3½ days.

Supreme Court To Hear Famed 'Monkey Case'

Accepts Review Of Arkansas Law Limiting Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stage was set in the Supreme Court today for a replay of Tennessee's famed "monkey trial"—without its carnival frenzy.

The Tennessee law that led to the dramatic 1925 duel between Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan was killed by the state legislature last May.

But Arkansas and Mississippi continue to make the teaching of evolution a crime and today the court agreed to decide if the Arkansas law violates the right to teach and the freedom to learn.

These rights have been asserted by Mrs. Susan Epperson, 26, who claimed she could not teach biology properly in Little Rock's Central High School without explaining the Darwinian concept of evolution, and by H. H. Blanchard, who said his school-aged children should be exposed to all scientific theory.

Upheld by Court

The Arkansas law was upheld by the state Supreme Court June 5 as a "valid exercise of the state's power to specify the curriculum in its public schools."

Arguments will be heard in the majestic setting of the highest court in the land by May. The 1925 case was argued in the small town of Dayton, Tenn., where a 10-foot banner on the courthouse read "Read Your Bible Daily."

John Thomas Scopes, then 24, was convicted of teaching evolution and fined $100. He quit school, but the following year Tennessee courts reversed the conviction on a technicality and remitted the fine.

The Arkansas law forbids the teaching in any tax-supported school in the state of "the theory or doctrine that mankind ascended or descended from a lower order of animals."

Textbooks advancing the concept of evolution are banned. Teachers or textbook commissioners who violate the law may be fined up to $500 and fired.

OGO 5 Rockets Into Sun-Studying Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A research satellite that looks like a giant praying mantis today rocketed into orbit with a record number of experiments to make the most comprehensive study yet of how the sun influences the earth.

A 12-story-tall Atlas-Agena rocket blasted away from Cape Kennedy right on schedule at 8:06 a.m. EST, to propel OGO-5, the fifth Orbiting Geophysical Observatory, into space.

Eight minutes later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported the metal monster, still attached to the Agena second stage, was in an initial transfer orbit more than 100 miles above the earth.

After coasting on this course for nearly an hour, the Agena engines re-started to push the payload into a great elliptical orbit ranging from about 175 to 92,000 miles high. On this path it will move continually in and out of the earth's atmosphere.

The control center reported OGO 5's solar panels and other insect-like appendages deployed on schedule and that the flight was progressing very well. The more sensitive experiments, such as magnetometers, are unreel on the end of long booms to prevent interference with other sensors and from power sources in the main body of the spacecraft.

The satellite carries 25 scientific experiments, four more than on any previous U.S. satellite. They are intended to provide scientists with the best look yet at how thermonuclear flare eruptions on the sun affect our atmosphere, weather and communications.

District Electors Approve School Addition at Brillion

Referendum Scheduled April 2

BRILLION — School district electors voted better than 3 to 2 in favor of constructing additional facilities at the present Main Street 17-acre school site. The vote was 310-206 against a board of education proposal seeking a referendum which, if approved, would have given the district the right to bond for $1.5 million for construction of a new high school on a new site. Electors will vote April 2 on the referendum which, if approved, will authorize selling of general revenue bonds for no more than $750,000 for constructing the addition.

Thursday's vote culminated a 2½-year see-saw between adding to the present combined grade-high school site or construction of a complete new high school at a new location. The 516 ballots cast at the special district meeting represents a little more than 20 percent of the district's eligible voters.

Expanded Facilities The proposed construction combined with intra-school shifting of existing facilities, will expand library, science, business education, art and music facilities; will provide conventional classrooms and additional administrative offices.

A new gym is not included in the plans. Gaylor Unbehau, superintendent of schools, said Friday, that he is hopeful that a curriculum-consulant can be secured to aid in planning the building layout to assure the best possible facilities for the taxpayers' money.

Prior to the vote Don Schnell, school board president, presented a report on the feasibility of financing new school construction. He urged residents to consider developing a long-range program of debt service no matter what the vote outcome would be. This would assure a consistent school tax bite over the years, he said.

Figures Indicate The district tax base figures indicate the schools could finance either the $750,000 or the $1.5 million proposal, Schnell said.

The district's current legal debt limit is $2,692,870 — based on its $29,353,700 equalized valuation less the current $242,500 school debt, he pointed out. The financial feasibility report prepared by Ehlers and Associates, the school's financial consultants, further indicated that 2 to 3 percent of the increase in school costs from 1964 to 1967 were due to inefficient operation caused by renting of away-from-school classroom space and other factors.

City of Brillion residents share of school costs increased from 46 to 56 per cent from 1964 to 1967, while the Town of Brillion residents' rate decreased, the report showed.

Increases Indicated Population statistics presented indicate increases will continue due to migration and births. Calumet County's population increased from 22,268 in 1960 to 26,500 last year, Schnell's report showed.

Call Special Meeting

School Expansion Sought at Amherst

AMHERST — An expansion plan for Tomorrow River Schools will be presented to the district's electorate at a special meeting March 18.

The decision to call the meeting was made by the board of education and the planning commission.

The proposal is a junior-senior high school system with grades seven through nine in the junior high and 10 through 12 in the senior high. The proposed design is such that additions can be made to the structure as the need for space increases.

Plans Include Included in the plan are two classrooms capable of seating 60 students, with each room being equipped with dividers. Also included is a special education room for handicapped, a science laboratory with a 30 student capacity and auxiliary storage space, an art room for 30 students, a physical education gym which will be either a gym or swimming pool with locker room facilities and storage space, a central library capable of accommodating 80 students with adequate storage space and appropriate furnishings.

Plans also call for administrative offices, guidance and counseling space, speech therapy quarters, psychologist and social workers area, special reading classroom, teachers lounge and washroom facilities for 250 students.

Storage Space Other requirements are storage space for instructional supplies and furniture.

These suggestions are being recommended on the premise that modernization of the old portion of the high school would be continued on a scheduled basis.

The proposal includes the suggestion that Nelsonville and Amherst Junction students be moved to the Amherst schools.

Sketches of the proposed building have been developed by Donald Schoepke and Associates, Wausau, who designed the present building.

New County Ordinance Zoning Administrators Named at Waupaca

WAUPACA — Fifteen deputy county zoning administrators took their oath of office at a recent meeting held at Manawa. They will assist Charles Sherburne, county administrator, in administering the new county zoning ordinance in Waupaca County.

It is Sherburne's goal to have a deputy administrator in each of the county's 22 townships. The deputy administrators will issue land use permits and sanitary permits in situations where a permit conforms with the zoning ordinance and a county zoning committee decision is not required.

Deputy Administrators The 15 deputy administrators are: Emerson Turney, Dayton; Gordon Olson, Farmington; Lester Bork, Dupont; Lester Koepf, Fremont; Howard Sell, Larrabee; James O'Donnell, Little Wolf; John Krueger, Matison; E. L. Combs, Mukwa; Oscar Severson, St. Lawrence; Gordon Ziellow, Wyoming; Walter Newman, Caledonia; Walter Kadohlo, Royalton; Clair Madden, Lebanon; Lawrence Winkler, Waupaca; Paul E. Pope, Lind, and O. H. Prillwitz, Weyauwega.

Sherburne said many of the deputy administrators have some experience as town building inspectors or are familiar with the plumbing or building trade. To increase deputies' proficiency future training sessions will be held.

On March 11, Reginald Thaldorf, Green Bay, State district plumbing supervisor will conduct a class on the plumbing and sanitary code. Conditional land use permits must receive approval of the county zoning administrator and zoning committee. The committee will hold a meeting on the fourth Tuesday of each month to consider applications for conditional land use permits, Sherburne said. The first meeting will be March 26.

Delay Foreseen In Program of UW-Green Bay

Need Law Change For School's New Educational Concepts

MADISON — A new roadblock has been thrown in the path of program development of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette Friday told state educational officials new programs being planned at the UW-GB and a sister campus in Kenosha County cannot legally be developed until the Legislature approves the establishment.

The informal opinion was directed to Angus Rothwell, director of the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education. Rothwell had raised the question after the chancellors of the two campuses planned for opening in September, 1969, presented plans calling for new concepts in educational administration and direction.

At the UW-Green Bay Chancellor Edward W. Weidner has called for the development of colleges of community science, environmental science, human biology and creative communication and a school of professional studies.

Follow UW At the UW-Parkside Chancellor Irvin Wyllie has proposed the establishment of a college of science and industry and a school of modern industry.

The act creating the two campuses requires that their programs be established in directions consistent with courses offered at the University of Wisconsin.

The section of state law governing the University of Wisconsin spells out that "no new school or college shall be established unless authorized by the Legislature."

La Follette decided therefore that the coordinating council could approve program development at the two new campuses but that the approval must be restricted to school and college systems already established at the UW.

The new programs cannot be approved until the Legislature changes the law — and the legislature does not plan to return in session until January, 1969.

Rothwell commented that development plans could continue but that the programs would have to be restricted to the department level.

"They won't be able to call themselves schools or colleges until the laws have been changed," said Rothwell.

Froehlich Hits UW Decision On Interviews

'Ignoring Regents' Ruling to Proceed Aggravates Issue'

MADISON (AP) — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, criticized University of Wisconsin administrators Friday for postponing job interviews with Dow Chemical Co. and the armed forces.

Froehlich said he and other legislators are concerned because the interviews were called off even though the board of regents declared such interviews should be held.

"This indicates that the question of who runs the university is still for the most part unresolved," Froehlich said in a news letter.

When Dow, manufacturer of napalm, held interviews Oct. 18, a sit-in demonstration by anti-war protesters erupted into wild skirmishes between students and club-swinging policemen.

Chancellor William Sewell on Feb. 12 declared that interviews by Dow and the Navy and Marine Corps would be deferred, pending faculty action on a committee report regarding the policy and conduct of placement interviews.

"The university administration, since the Oct. 18 riot, has acted only with indecision," Froehlich asserted.

For administrators "to maintain their ostrich-like pretence that problems, legislators and regents do not exist will only further aggravate the situation," he added.

March 15 Limit Set for Signups On Feed Grain

CHILTON — Final date to sign up for the 1968 Feed Grain Program is March 15, according to Sylvester Wagner, chairman of the Calumet County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The program for corn is designed to reduce total feed supplies and strengthen prices. The national goal is to divert about 30 million acres from production of corn and grain sorghum to conserving uses — 10 million more than in 1967.

To date about 250 county farmers have signed to divert 3,000 acres, according to Wagner.

Wagner urged corn producers to visit the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service office at the city hall to get program details.

Increased Teacher Wages Authorized at New London

Base Salary Boosted $700; Welfare Committee to Consider

NEW LONDON — The school administration has been instructed to issue teachers' contracts for the 1968-69 school year on a salary schedule proposed by the Board of Education.

This means a base salary of $6,100 for a bachelor's degree, $700 higher than the current starting salary, and the 100 increases in all other steps proposed at all previous meetings with the New London Education Association's (NLEA) welfare committee.

Teachers had sought a $6,200 base plus a 4 per cent increment to the board. At a recent negotiation meeting the welfare committee proposed a $6,100 starting salary and 3½ per cent increment.

NLEA members turned down a board proposal of $6,000 base and 3 per cent increment by a 99-5 vote, the welfare committee reported. Negotiated points on fringe benefits was approved 96-4 by the teachers' association.

After the board of education made its proposal for a $100 increase on all steps of the salary schedule, the welfare committee held a caucus, then counter-proposed a $6,100 base plus a 3 per cent increment.

The board pointed out that the smallest increase a teacher presently in the system would receive is $880 and the largest $2,340. Putting all teachers on schedule immediately resulted in the major increases.

Base salaries will range from $6,100 for a teacher with a master degree plus 15 credits up to $11,340 after 13 years of service.

The welfare committee, representing the NLEA, indicated it would take the board's action on salaries back to the association.

Several years ago, Vince Lombardi and the Green Bay Packers proved that champions do come back. Politically, good men have proved this for generations. Things and circumstances need change now and then, and when results are not up to expectations, it's wise to return to proven experience. Clarence Mitchell has been a former mayoralty champion: he remains a champion of many civic affairs: he deserves—and will appreciate—the opportunity to champion Appleton's cause again.

Mayoral, Judicial Primaries Hold Interest

Moderate Voter Turnout Expected

A moderate voter turnout is predicted Tuesday for Appleton's second mayoral primary election in a quarter century.

This year for the first time the mayor's job calls for a four-year term at $15,000 per year.

The two top vote-getters will battle it out in the April 2 general election.

Mayor George Buckley, seeking his second term, is being challenged by Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) and William Wachtendonk (3rd) and former mayor Clarence A. Mitchell.

Supervisor Contests

In addition there will be primaries for city council positions in the 7th, 14th and 20th Wards; a countywide judgeship race; plus primaries for some county board supervisor seats.

At last count, 22,570 Appleton residents have been registered to vote, according to City Clerk Elden Broehm, who is forecasting a turnout of about 12,000.

Although the candidates appeared on a few public forums, there were no direct confrontations during the primary electioneering.

Not Strangers

When Buckley was elected to the city council in the early 1960's he defeated Pointer.

And when winning the mayor's job two years ago, Buckley beat Mitchell in the primary by about a 450-vote spread and repeated in the general election with a 979-vote margin.

During the Mitchell administration, Wachtendonk served as a member and president of the park board before being elected to the city council a year ago.

For Mitchell, Tuesday's primary represents an attempt at a political comeback after being out of the local governmental picture since April, 1966.

Most Electioneering

Pointer is giving up his 14th Ward aldermanic post to run. The veteran alderman has done more electioneering than the other candidates.

No matter what the outcome of the primary, Wachtendonk will still have another year to serve on the council.

For many years Appleton never had a mayoral primary, making it easier for the incumbent to ward off opposition by vote fragmentation.

However, in 1966, the city council changed the city's election setup to conform with that of many other cities in the state.

Lack of Leadership

When the primary was held on March 8, 1966, the total number of registered voters was 22,565. The number showing at the polls was 12,487, or 55.3 percent of the electorate.

The three challengers have alleged a lack of leadership exists at city hall, and have also listed industrial development as one of the key issues in the low tone campaign.

Buckley has pointed with pride to his "progress without frills" administration, and cites the city's industrial expansion has flourished during the past two years, including considerable building to be done at the old county airport property which was purchased by the city.

Mitchell says he had a good performance record while in office and wants the chance to pick up from where he left off.

Former Editors

Pointer has put together a hard-working campaign group which includes the services of two former Post-Crescent city editors now employed in private industry.

Wachtendonk claims mismanagement from the mayor's office down into some departments and says his candidacy represents a fresh approach to city problems.

No matter who wins the race, he will be faced with having to work with an experienced city council. In recent years, this has been the case with both Mitchell and Buckley and the April election will not change things any.

Three Aldermen

At least three new aldermen will be elected to the council next month, and possibly more if some of the incumbents

In the 7th Ward where Ald. Mark Catlin is stepping down from the council to run for judge, the primary field consists of Robin Long, 1708 S. Perkins St.; George E. Reynolds, 2018 Hickory Ct.; and Fred A. Kingsley, 1123 S. Mason St.

The four-way contest in the 14th Ward involves Harold H. Douglas, 1030 E. Byrd St.; Thomas A. Mulvihill, 1131 E. Byrd St.; Austin N. Tucker, 936 E. Glendale Ave.; and Dorothy Draheim, 1701 N. McDonald St.

In the 20th Ward incumbent Ald. Norman E. Beyer, 1722 W. Spring St., is opposed by Ralph Schwartz, 902½ W. Winnebago St.; and Charles W. Roeck, 1003 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Both Unopposed

City Clerk Eldon Broehm and Treasurer Ray Feuerstein have no opposition whatsoever in seeking re-election, also to their first four-year terms.

Assessor John Pierre will have competition in the April general election as will Charles Buchanan, board of education president, and several aldermen and some supervisors.

Veteran city hall observers say this year's mayoral campaign has been one of the quietest in years.

Reflect Apathy?

An unusual situation developed here this year, which may reflect apathy. It is estimated that 40 of the regular 103 election workers, representing Republican and Democratic Parties, declined election day assignments.

Most of them informed the city clerk's office they were "too busy with other things". As a result it was necessary to recruit additional help to fill the vacancies.

City polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

'Y' Leader On National Committee

Mrs. Vanevenhoven Will Serve 3 Years With Youth Program

Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, women, girls, and young adult program director at the Appleton Family YMCA, has been appointed to a three-year term on the National YMCA Youth Program Committee.

The 25-member Youth Program Committee is responsible for all programs (other than physical education) for youth through high school age, and for all camping programs.

Presently, Mrs. Vanevenhoven serves as chairman of the State YMCA Leadership and Officers Training Conference. She also is on the five-state YMCA Area Program Services Committee, and has served on the YMCA National Women and Girls Program Committee.

She helped organize the first Tri-Hi-Y State Conference and for the past seven years has served as adviser for the Wisconsin YMCA Youth in Government Program.

Mrs. Vanevenhoven was selected for the national youth committee because of the wide scope of programs for youths and women at the Appleton YMCA. More than 3,000 of the 6,000 members of the YMCA are women and girls. This does not include the teens in the Hi-Y and Tri-Y clubs.
